Ordinance Will Determine Her Future

This Pet Attracts Stares

By JANET PARKER

When Sherry Rodarmor walks her pet along Pacifica's beaches, she attracts quite a bit of attention.

Actually, the attention getter is what's on the end of the leash — her pet goat, Goldie.

A 15-month-old Nubian-Alpine cross, the animal mingles with other pets and delights children.

She'll occasionally offer a "baa," but she doesn't eat tin cans or raid the neighbor's clothes lines, her owner assures.

"KIDS GO OUT of their minds when they see her," Miss Rodarmor said.

No bigger than Miss Rodarmor's Irish Wolfhound or collie, she looks just like of the dogs from the distance.

But, the Pacifica woman said, people can't believe their eyes when she takes the animal off its leash and it plays with dogs on the beach.

"I take her out whenever I can," she said. "Most people around here know of the goat."

"She's really a character. People along the way can't believe she's not skiddish or jumpy," she said.

Miss Rodarmor's pet came into the city limelight when the building inspection department learned she had the animal in the small yard behind her Sharp Park cottage. A notice was posted on her door Nov. 18 informing her a livestock permit will be necessary.

The city's animal ordinance says livestock, of which they classify Goldie, must be kept on at least one acre of land.

Miss Rodarmor's backyard, much less than an acre, only 25 by 20 feet.

A revised animal ordinance, which the City Council is considering, however, will allow the Animal Advisory Commission to make exceptions to the livestock area requirements and Goldie's future as a Pacifica resident could be assured.

Miss Rodarmor, however, insists Goldie isn't livestock — she's a family pet. And besides, she'll grow no larger than most dogs, approximately 26 inches at maturity.

BUT, NEW ORDINANCE or not, Miss Rodarmor says her goat is well cared for, quiet and odorless.

A graduate student in public service at University of San Francisco, she said she eventually intends to breed goats on five acres of land she owns near Placerville.

Goldie is the first goat she has owned, and while the animal is not of proper stock for breeding, it's giving her a chance to get acquainted with the traits of the animal.

"I've been reading up on breeding and they say the best way to get started in breeding is with one goat," she said.

There are a lot of goat farmers in the Placerville area, she said, and she's been talking to them for breeding tips, too.

She's learned that the goats have a high mortality rate.

Miss Rodarmor would like to raise Nubian goats. But goat breeding can be an expensive business since the most inexpensive goat is about $125.

The size of her own goat farm, she said, will depend on the money she has available at the time.

"GOATS ARE VERY intelligent animals," she said she has learned. "Goldie has found three different ways to get out of the backyard."

One of her escape routes, Miss Rodarmor said, was by digging all the way under the house from the backyard to the front.

She only occasionally is permitted in Miss Rodarmor's cottage.

Most of the time, she is in the backyard with the dogs and two cats or in her own private living quarters — an area under the cottage with a straw loft and an overhead light which her master turns on at night.

She responds to her name and she has no trouble recognizing feeding time, Miss Rodarmor said.

If the city for any reason should decide Goldie can't stay on the small cottage lot, her owner will send her to Placerville.

She said she could visit on the weekends and put enough feed out to keep Goldie from getting hungry.

ALL A GOAT REALLY requires, she said, is a three-sided shelter to protect it from the rain.

But, should the city decide this winter that Goldie must go, she doesn't know if she could send her pet to live alone in the snow country.

At any rate, she'd buy Goldie another goat for companionship.

Since she moved from San Francisco in October to Pacifica, especially so she could keep her goat, Miss Rodarmor is a bit resentful of an ordinance which might deny her the right to keep her pet.

"I think they get a little too ridiculous with ordinances," she said. "When you buy your own house and have your own property and someone says you can't have something on it, it doesn't seem right."

Neighbors, she said, are cooperative.

"I've asked my neighbors if Goldie bothers them and they say they aren't partial to goats, but Goldie is okay," she said.

FAMILY PET

For Sherry Rodarmor of Pacifica, a goat named Goldie is just another family pet. She takes the animal on walks along the beach near her cottage and by the Sharp Park Golf Course, often with her two dogs leading the way.

FLAG ARRIVES IN DALY CITY

Bicentennial Flag Arrives

Daly City has received its official Bicentennial flag thereby designating it a "National Bicentennial City."

Councilman McRobert Stewart said announcement of the official designation was made to the city in a letter from Kent B. Williams, Regional Director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration on Nov. 20.

Shortly after receipt of the letter, the city received its official flag and a certificate.

Councilman Stewart is the city's Bicentennial Committee chairman.

He presented the flag and certificate to Mayor Victor Kyriakis on Dec. 8 during a regular city council meeting.

The official symbol is designed to be an American five-pointed star, surrounded by a continuous red, white and blue stripe which form another star.

The double star is symbolic of the 200 years which have passed since the American Revolution of 1776. In a circle around the star are the words: "American Revolution Bicentennial 1776-1976."

The flag is accepted as a national flag and, as such, ranks immediately beneath the Stars and Stripes in any flag display.

Public Hearings Slated on How to Spend $459,000

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Daly City is expected to get some $459,000 in second-year funds under the Federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, and public hearings have been set on how to spend the money.

The city council previously held public hearings on the first year programs.

At that time, the council considered a three-year spending projection for the federal monies.

The second-year hearings will begin on Jan. 19 at 7:30 p.m., it was announced Monday.

City Manager David Rowe said specific project proposals must be received by his office no later than 5 p.m., Jan. 9, in order to be considered for funding.

HE URGED Daly City residents and organizations to suggest priorities when making their requests.

In its first year of funding, Daly City received $207,000.

Although the money was received last year, actual projects are just now getting underway, including housing rehabilitation, day care, and planning for a multi-purpose center in the Top of the Hill area of Mission Street.

Rowe also announced plans for public participation in the community development planning.

Interested groups, individuals, organizations, city commissions and city departments can suggest programs, priorities and projects, he said.

The 50-member Citizens Commission of the General Plan and Community Goals, now being revised, will review proposals and advise the city council on funding levels, it was explained.

Following Planning Commission review, it was anticipated the city council will take final action on March 22.

MEANWHILE, DON FLEMING has been named director of community development — a post he has held as Acting Director since last year.

Rowe disclosed the appointment of Fleming Monday.

Prior to his joining Daly City, Fleming served for five years as assistant city manager planning director for Yuba City.

In Yuba City, Fleming's duties included serving as principal staff member for the Planning Commission and in the preparation of planning reports.

Fleming has been with the city of Daly City since 1969.

He has a bachelor's degree from the University of Southern California (1964), majoring in public administration.

Mitchell is Appointed Assistant City Manager

Ronald L. Mitchell has been appointed assistant to the city manager of Daly City, it was announced Monday.

City Manager David Rowe said Mitchell is now working as supervising auditor in San Jose.

He will replace Steve Lowe, a state officer who had been temporarily assigned to the city manager's office for training.

Mitchell, 34, graduated from California State University, San Francisco, with a bachelor's degree (1966), majoring in accounting.

He recently graduated from San Jose State University with a master's degree in public administration. He also is a registered certified public accountant.

Mitchell will assume his new duties on Feb. 2.

He and his wife, Herlinda, plan to relocate in the Daly City area, according to the announcement.

Nation's Holiday Season Transit Looks Grim

By DAN COOK

A monumental traffic jam is shaping up for the would-be holiday traveler — in fact, it is the worst in memory of at least one industry spokesman.

The annual yule pilgrimage of nationwide travelers going home for the holidays is severely hampered this year by strikes against United Airlines and National Airlines, and the crush is just beginning.

Although other national carriers are trying to take up the slack, formidable delays are brewing, and the airlines will be hard-pressed to keep abreast of the burgeoning volume of travelers.

Significant with the long delays in booking reservations — which will be few to accommodate record numbers of passengers — is the fact that airline "no show" statistics are up sharply, and all airlines have indicated that seats are available for the persistent.

"We are in better shape than we are credited," said American Airline's Dick Tyler. "This is due to overbookings and a high 'no show' figure."

"Our big stumbling block is in making reservations," Tylor said. "We are urging customers to fly standby, and were able to move all of our standby passengers to their destinations over the past weekend."

Hughes Airwest spokesmen reported this morning that the carriers reservations force has been beefed up some 20 per cent to handle the overload.

Airwest's Larry Litchfield said the airline is experiencing a no-show factor of 30 per cent, up sharply from the usual percentage.

"This is due in part to the long wait to reach someone at the reservation number in order to cancel their flights," Litchfield said.

"There are seats available, but after a long wait in order to cancel, many just say 'the hell with it,' and hang up."

Litchfield said Airwest has beefed-up crews working around the clock to handle the load.

Litchfield said that over the past weekend, 23 Airwest flights which computers had listed as booked solid with a capacity of 805 actually carried 666 passengers, leaving 139 open seats.

"I can't recall a situation when the volume was so heavy and the delays have been so long," Litchfield said. "We're asking our callers to 'hang in there' when attempting to call for reservations — just don't hang up."

PSA has beefed up its fleet with the addition of a 727 jet recently returned from All Nippon Airways, and is adding flights wherever possible.

PSA's Terry Henry said this morning that a particularly troublesome area has been in the San Joaquin Valley routes between Stockton, Fresno and the Bay Area. Persons living in that area are unable to book connecting flights through PSA, which competed in the area with United before the strike.

"We are prohibited by law from carrying passengers making connecting flights," Henry said. "Although we applied for Civil Aeronautics Board permission to do so during this emergency, our request was denied."

Clearly, what bothers the airlines locally is the expected peak period from Dec. 17 to 19.

Fort Ord is expected to release the bulk of the troops stationed there for Christmas leave on Dec. 17, a day before the crush is anticipated. None of the airlines would speculate on how this additional volume, mainly military standby passengers, would further affect to jam already predicted.

"I have heard from several sources that 'if you haven't already got a reservation, forget it'," America's Tyler said. "But that's not yet the case."

According to Mrs. Nancy Carson, travel agent with the San Mateo office of the California State Automobile Association, things are really bad.

"Right now, it is taking us 45 minutes to an hour just to get through to an airline," Mrs. Carson said this morning. "Western Airlines, for example, has said it doesn't have the personnel to put on extra holiday flights."

A decision was expected today from The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) on a request from Pan American World Airways to take over, temporarily, United's shut-down routes from San Francisco to Seattle and San Francisco to New York.

"Flights to Hawaii are most hard-pressed," Mrs. Carson said, "and waiting lists have been canceled."

Although most Amtrak runs are sold out, Mrs. Carson said that would-be United paesengers can report to Amtrak stations, where their tickets will be exchanged for Amtrak booking, and additional cars will be placed on the trains to accommodate them.

This service is unavailable through a travel agent, however.

A spokesman for Greyhound Lines fares and information office in Palo Alto, which serves the Peninsula, said traffic on the buses is extemely heavy.

2 Armed Men Hold-Up Bar

Two men, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a snubnosed revolver, held up the Country Club Bar, 2501 Geneva Ave., Daly City early Tuesday and fled after taking some $68 from five patrons.

Police said the pair also took about $80 in cash from a bar cash register and an assortment of watches and rings from the customers.

The customers and bar owner were forced by the gunmen to lie on the floor during the robbery.

One of the men covered the patrons with the shotgun while his accomplice systematically searched each person before fleeing in the bar owner's car.

Police have not been able to locate the car, a 1971 dark brown Chevrolet Caprice, license number 488 DGH.

Only Two File Nomination Papers

Anthony Zidich, incumbent city treasurer for Daly City, and Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf, incumbent city clerk are the only two candidates entered in the March 2 municipal elections that have officially filed nomination papers as of Tuesday.

There are now eight potential candidates in the City Council elections, vying for two seats.

DeBernardi is a former councilman and was defeated in 1970 after serving 16 years on the council.

Zidich may be opposed by former City Treasurer's Office employe, Marian Laskey, who took out nomination papers last week.

In Brisbane, only one candidate, Sidney A. Madden, a machinist of 200 Monterey St., has taken out nomination papers for the City Council.

Two seats — those of Dr. Paul Goercke and Jeanne Hodge — are being contested.

Manpower to Trim 4 Programs

The San Mateo County Manpower Planning Council has voted to recommend the elimination of four contract programs in the area of employment training and work experience. The move would trim $105,000 from the job development program.

George Riley, acting director for the Manpower Planning Program, said the county's manpower programs, which total 14, grew too quickly in an attempt to meet a drastic need and service the enployment market.

"It turns out they grew beyond the existing funding capacity," Riley said Monday.

Programs which will not be recommended to the Board of Supervisors for refunding are: Mothers for Equal Education, $40,000 for a clerical training program in East Palo Alto; Motivation Through Communications, San Mateo, $42,000 for training in photo and video journalism; International Institute, $11,000 for job counseling for Spanish-speaking immigrants on the Coastside; and Bayshore Employment, East Palo Alto, $6,000 for job referrals.

Riley said the programs recommended to be eliminated either provided services duplicated by other programs or skills which are not highly in demand by the market.

In addition, the council voted to reduce the contract with the Urban League by $14,000.

"What we're doing is coming to grips with programs that will best serve the unemployed in the future, and whittling down the programs that don't have a similar contribution to make," commented Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., chairman of the Manpower Planning Council.

The council has declined to follow Riley's recommendations for reductions in three other programs — Service Employment Redevelopment, Redwood City; Pacific Youth Service Bureau, and PROBE, Redwood City.

The council's recommendation will be considered by the Board of Supervisors at its Dec. 23 meeting.

Since the project is a fund-raising activity, there will be a charge, Mrs. Walker said.

Toys Needed for Party At Holy Angels Church

More than 300 children will receive Christmas presents at a party sponsored by the Holy Angels Church in Daly City, 107 San Pedro Road, Saturday.

From 2-4 p.m., children from Daly City and Colma will be served refreshments, entertained and given toys.

Holy Angels is seeking toy donations for the children who will attend the party.

Gifts for children from one to 12 years costing no more than $2 are requested, a spokeswoman said.

The Holy Angels Men's Club is among the contributors to the event, which is held annually at the church home.

Stabbing in Cage Dispute

An altercation over a basketball ended with one Pacifican in jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and a juvenile being treated for superficial stab wounds of the chest Monday night.

Police said Bobby Stanley Thompson, 21, of 258 Imperial, Pacifica, was arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly stabbed an unidentified 16-year-old boy with a pocketknife during a scuffle over a basketball.

According to police reports, Thompson allegedly took a basketball away from the 16-year-old's younger brother and when he went to retrieve it, the argument erupted.

Pacifican Terrified By Chase

A terrified Pacifica mother clutched her two-month-old baby boy throughout the pursuit of the car in which she was riding Monday as it reached speeds of 120 miles per hour southbound from San Mateo on the Bayshore Freeway, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The fleeing vehicle went through a red light at 105 miles per hour on leaving the freeway at Woodside Road, a CHP officer said.

It crashed at the intersection with Veterans Boulevard.

The mother, apparently uninjured, fled with the baby in her arms to a police car which sped up, the officer said.

Arrested on speeding and reckless driving charges was Jesus Francisco Murrillo-Ballardo, 18, a dishwasher for a San Mateo hotel, the CHP said.

Also arrested and held in county jail for immigration Service was a 19-year-old Burlingame resident, Jaimi Juan Cruz, who was reportedly was found without papers.

SSF Teachers to Protest Reprimands

By JANET PARKER

Thirteen South San Francisco teachers who received letters of reprimand early last week will file letters in their own defense, it has been learned.

Those 13 teachers, plus seven others who have been asked to answer the charges stemming from the two-week teachers strike that began May 23, met with attorney Larry Davis late Thursday.

Marjorie Pitkin, Classroom Teachers Association president, said Davis will aid each teacher in preparing letters in answer to the charges.

That action, Mrs. Pitkin said, probably won't be completed before Christmas.

The 13 teachers, as part of the most recent post-strike action by the board of trustees, received notification Monday and Tuesday this week that letters would be placed in their personnel files.

They also received copies of the letters.

The seven other teachers received letters Nov. 5 listing charges against them and asking them to appear before the board in hearings.

So far, the teachers have not appeared.

In a prepared statement, the board said, "Desiring to wrap up the investigation of charges stemming from recent strike-related activities, the board of trustees has placed letters of reprimand into the personnel files of 13 district teachers."

"The action taken concludes the board investigation and no further action apart from on-going personnel hearings is anticipated."

"This is completely out of line," Mrs. Pitkin said. "If morale was ever down,it is now."

Board President Ken Austin said that, other than the hearings for the seven teachers, "the board anticipates no further action."

Austin said each letter of reprimand included a note stating the teacher involved has the right, according to Education Code, to file a letter in his or her behalf.

That letter also would be filed with the letter of reprimand.

"We're waiting for any response before the letters are entered in the file," Austin said.

Once in the teacher's personnel file, he said, it is technically classified public record, although it is not available to the general public.

It will follow the teacher should he or she apply for any other job.

Austin said strict legal procedures must be followed in order to have any such letter removed from the file.

The charges against the 13 teachers, he said, are similar to charges aainst the original seven teachers, but are not so severe.

More than 100 charges against teachers have been received since the strike, and the board has found 20 of them to be of significance, he said.

The names of the 13 teachers have not been released.

The original seven names were released, Mrs. Pitkin said, with permission of the individuals involved.

Those teachers and their schools are Jenny Byrne, Sonny Birkett-Toy and Laurel Peterman of Junipero Serra School; Jose Ortega and John Fraser, Fraser, Avalon School; Dallas LeBlanc, Westborough School, and John Dodge, Monte Verde.

"We feel confident we will have the letters removed," Mrs. Pitkin said. She declined to say what action will be taken to secure the removal of the letters from the files.

She said the board is continuing to try and punish the teachers and to drag out the problems of the strike.

Health Planning Act 'To Self-Destruct'

There is some confusion and doubt as to just how successful the new federal Health Planning and Resource Development Act will be in meeting the health care needs of the nation.

"There are many problems as to what is going to happen," Dr. Howard Gurevitz, director of programs for the San Mateo County Department of Health and Welfare, told some 40 persons attending a meeting of the County Council for Developmental Disabilities Thursday in Redwood City.

Gurevitz claimed the act, which established a system of area Health System Agencies throughout the country, is a "forerunner of the structure and system to enable communities to adapt to a national health insurance plan, and probably is the most significant piece of health service legislation since Social Security."

Ron Marshall, executive director of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of San Mateo County, told the council, on the other hand, that the Health Planning and Resource Development Act is "designed to self-destruct to discredit the national Health insurance plan."

Gurevitz said the act is designed to control planning and resource development of medical services, to avoid duplication and fragmentation and to reach areas of medically underserved population.

He described the new law as "extremely complex . . . many ambiguities."

Gurevitz also said the "implications are far-reaching, but vague in some areas, and it is underfunded."

Marshall, said, however, the way the law has created Health Service Areas he fears it will create competition among the areas to provide health care.

He noted that the Bay Area has been divided into four Health Service Areas, instead of being left in a single nine-county area as has been the case under the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

He cited a theoretical example in which the East Bay, which will be in a different Health Service Area, might develop a burn care center, while San Francisco, which has such a facility, has been able to provide that service under the nine-county CHPC setup.

Marshall also expressed concern that the statute creating the new health system for a period of 36 months will expire before it can demonstrate its success.

The act places San Mateo, San Francisco and Marin counties in one of the Health Service Areas. The CHPC and the three counties, under a joint-powers agreement, have filed separate applications of intention to apply for designation as the Health Systems Agency to serve the tri-county area.

However, the two groups will hold a total of four joint hearings this month to receive public comment on the proposed applications.

Open Race for Moscone Seat

Four major potential candidates today indicated they are considering throwing their hat in the ring for the State Senate post George Moscone must vacate when he becomes mayor of San Francisco.

They are Assemblyman Lou Papan, D-Daly City; former San Mateo County Supervisor Robert St. Clair, Millbrae, and San Francisco Supervisors John Molinari and Bob Mendelsohn.

Additionally, there was some indication that San Francisco Supervisor Quentin Kopp is looking at the situation.

St. Clair said he was definitely interested.

The five-times all-pro captain of the San Francisco 49ers who went on to become the mayor of Daly City and a councilman for six years, then to become a county supervisor for eight years, during which he held the chairmanship twice, said he had been strongly urged to run by friends.

"My real roots are here," St. Clair said. "I have always had a lot of support from north San Mateo County and the Sunset District, where I lived when I was first married, is in this district. It extends to within two blocks of my store in the Mission District, where I am president of the Noe Valley Merchants Association."

"A lot of people have called and encouraged me to run."

The only Republican who has indicated he may run is San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari. (Rumors that San Mateo County Supervisor John Ward, also a Republican, might enter the race were dispelled this morning to say that he is not a candidate and plans to serve the four-year term that he has been elected to here.)

Molinari, who will force a runoff if he runs, due to the election mechanism, said he will reach a decision by mid-January and meanwhile will be talking to people of both counties.

The other San Mateo County candidate would be Daly City Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, also a Democrat. Papan's district in some respects parallels that of Moscone and he may not wish to pass up the opportunity.

Papan, the former FBI agent who became vice mayor of Daly City and then, three years ago, the assemblyman from north San Mateo County, is currently the speaker pro-tem of the California Assembly.

His office indicated today that he is considering the possibility of running but that the cost of the election, which could hit $100,000 if it follows the pattern of a recent Sacramento election, and the fact that the general election would follow so quickly, are giving him pause.

Papan is scheduled to run again for election in June for his present seat.

War Toys Shot Down This Year

"There just isn't any demand."

That appears to be the feeling of most toy store owners on the Peninsula when asked if war toys, shunned by many parents since the Vietnam War, are regaining their popularity.

"There just aren't any calls," reported an employe of Plaza Toys in the Woodside Plaza shopping center in Redwood City.

In fact, she said, the only play-guns in stock are cowboy ones.

"We just haven't had many calls," Art Rosen, co-owner of Melart's in Hillsdale Mall, said. "There are very few demands."

The demand now, he reported, comes for outer space items, such as the Star Trek program that has been repeated year after year on TV until now it is going into fourth and fifth re-runs.

The only exception, according to Rosen, is for the game, "Tank Command," which already is unavailable because too few were manufactured.

And this, too, was advertised on television.

A few years ago it was "GI Joe," a doll for boys, with all the extras, including weapons, helmets, machine guns and fatigue clothes.

"But this, also, has slowed down to a snail's pace," it was reported.

"We get a cross section of people," Rosen said, "and I can see the downhill trend continuing. We are just not ordering war toys, such as the soldiers' helmets and uniforms which once were our big sellers.

"We haven't had a call for a long time," Plaza Toys reported. "Whatever the parents or their kids want, it is not war toys."

DC Drug Arrest

A San Francisco man was arrested by Daly City police at the El Rancho Market on Geneva Avenue after store security guards allegedly caught him shoplifting.

Police said they found 14 "balloons" of heroin on the man, identified as Dwight Smith, 22, of 37 Sandowa Street, San Francisco.

Smith was charged with possession of heroin and carrying a loaded firearm. The incident occurred at about 5 p.m.

Woolworth Held Up

Two armed men wearing red jumpsuits, beige jackets and sporting goatees, held up the Woolworth store in the Westlake (Daly City) shopping mall shortly before 8 p.m. Saturday.

The pair fled with an undisclosed amount of cash, police reported.

Fertilizer for Shade Trees

The National Arborist Association stress that now is a good time of year to give shade trees an application of fertilizer. The effects of the fertilizer may be seen the following spring in earlier development of foliage, greater abundance of leaves, and general improvement in the health and beauty of the tree.

Fall application of fertilizer is advantageous in several ways. Tree root growth continues well into the winter and where winters are really mild, all winter long. An ample supply of nutrients in the soil during this time assures improvement in the development of the root system. No substantial amount of the fertilizer leaches away during the winter; plant food elements not absorbed during the winter are immediately available when new growth starts in the spring. Soil and weather conditions usually are favorable in the fall and early winter for application of fertilizer materials.

Fertilizer mixtures recommended by the National Arborist Association for shade trees are high in nitrogen with lesser amounts of phosphorus and potash. Rates and methods of application are influenced by the species of tree being treated, its age, size and health condition, and the type of soil in which it is growing. Trees in lawns or among shrubs that are fertilized will not need extra fertilizer as they get enough. It is the trees planted in parking strips and untended areas that need help. Even here fertilize with a light touch.

Espaliered Pear Tree

By IVA NEWMAN

A six-year-old, espaliered "Comice" pear tree in the garden of Daniel Santos, 9 Victoria Road, Burlingame, is The Post Plant of the Week. An espalier is a tree or shrub with its branches trained to grow in a flat pattern. Espaliering permits a tree, shrub or vine to be grown in a small area in a decorative pattern.

Among the fruit trees pears and apples are the easiest to train and most rewarding. The comice pear, also known as the Royal Riviera, has large to very large, roundish to pear-shaped fruits with a russet-green thick skin with superb flavor that ripens in early fall. Our picture was taken in the middle of September. The tree is a vigorous grower but slower than average pears to reach bearing age. It is moderately susceptible to fireblight. We have seen this pear growing and bearing well in many sections of San Mateo, Burlingame and Hillsborough. It needs a sunny location, well prepared, well-drained soil, normal fertilizing and regular watering.

Trees will need spraying for codling moth, aphids and other pests but the main problem can be fireblight. This blight also attacks pyrancantha so do not plant this berried shrub near a pear tree. The blight makes entire branches die back quickly. The only cure is to cut out blighted branches well below the dead part and washing prun- ing tools with a disinfectant between each cut. This is most important if the tree is to be saved.

To grow a good espalier select a location in front of east-facing wall or fence if possible as they do a bit better in this location than they do in hot sunshine. Build a framework trellis of pipe, wire or wood that stand about eight inches from the wall so that air can circulate freely behind the plant and a spray nozzle can be held behind the plant when needed. Make the trellis large enough and strong enough for the final, adult size of the plant. If you are going to need to get behind the plant to paint, take this into consideration in your planning. One of the loveliest espaliers we have seen was used to screen a driveway from the front porch. This type of location needs a truly strong support but it is certainly easy for the tree to be cared for.

If you aren't up on espalier growing look for plants that have been started in their training in a small wooden trellis. Or, seek out one- or two-year-old plants with side branches already formed in about the positions you desire. Set them out the same way you would any tree or shrub.

Do not overdo feeding as you do not want the plants to grow too rapidly as the slower they grow, the better you can control them. If the side branches are not already formed where you wish them, shorten the trunk to the point where you wish branching to develop. Fasten your chosen branches into position by bending them gently and tying them with some soft material such as the broad, ribbon-like plastic ties or cloth. Avoid wire which might cut the stems as they increase in girth. Wires can also burn plant tissue when heated by the sun. Cut away all unneeded branches, making smooth cuts flush with the main stem.

Control of Scale On Trees Needed

One phase of three care that must be accomplished before buds break in spring is dormant spraying to control scale insects, aphids and overwintering mites.

These are sap-sucking insects that can be dangerous only if their populations are allowed to get out of control. If the chemical attack against these pests is launched after buds break, the pests may be destroyed but severe injury to the tree itself may result. In addition, the spray must be applied when temperatures are between 40 and 90 degrees F.

Because tree men must rally manpower and equipment for the pre-Spring offensive to get as much accomplished as possible under the required conditions; the home owner should make arrangements to get his trees covered as soon as possible.

Scale insects are most likely to infest elm, beech, apple, maple, oak and many other shade and fruit trees, as well as numerous ornamental shrubs. Oil sprays that thwart scale insects can be dangerous to certain trees sensitive to dormant applications. These include maple, beech, hickory and walnut trees. Later in the growing season, a safe insecticide, such as malathion, should be used on trees that react adversely to the oils.

Heavy scale infestations result in sparse foliage, shriveled bark and death for heavily infested branches.

Fireblight Endangers Roses

By IVA NEWMAN

Fireblight, also known as pear blight, is a common and frequently destructive bacterial disease of plants belonging to the rose family. Pears and quinces are extremely susceptible while apples and crabapples may be damaged it is not so common on them. Fireblight in this area usually shows up first on hawthorns, pyracantha and cotoneaster.

Fireblight is characterized by a sudden wilting, followed by a shriveling and blackening of the blossoms, tender shoots, and young fruits. The affected parts look as though they were scorched by fire; hence the name fireblight. An infection may progress down a shoot and into the bark of larger limbs where dark sunken cankers are formed. These cankers slowly enlarge and may eventually girdle the limb.

The bacterium which causes the disease is "Erwinia amylovora." It survives the summer and winter in blighted twigs and cankers, which serve as sources of new infections the following year. During moist weather in early spring, the bacteria ooze from the holdover cankers in small, milky, sticky drops. The bacteria are carried to the blossoms and tender shoots by flies, ants, beetles, and other insects, and by splashing rain. Bees and flies play a major role in spreading fireblight from blossom to blossom, by the beehive is not a holdover source of infection.

Some busy homeowners do not have time to do much investigating in their gardens and they often mistake a twig, dead from fireblight, as just a dead twig and cut it off with the same shears they cut greens for the house. This is dangerous.

Control

When observed during the summer, prune out and burn (in the fireplace) the diseased twigs and branches. Cut well below the edge of the infected area. On large trees, such as pears, cut back 18 inches or more where possible. After each cut, sterilize the cutting tools and the cut surface with a disinfectant to avoid further spread of the disease. A 5 per cent lysol or a 4 per cent amphyl solution may be used. Both materials are available from drugstores as liquid concentrates. This is most important.

In winter every dead twig on the above susceptible plants should be suspect and the cuts should be made like those above for summer growth.

As a rule, fireblight is much worse on succulent growth. Excessive nitrogen fertilization, combined with heavy watering and other cultural practices that promote rapid growth, should be avoided where the disease in your garden or a neighbor's garden has been noted.

Blossoms are the most susceptible part of the plant. They may be protected from infection by copper-containing sprays or dusts. A minute amount of copper in the blossoms is effective. Avery weak bordeaux spray (½-½-100), or its equivalent, has proven highly successful in controlling the disease on pears.

Living Yule Trees For Sale

By IVA NEWMAN

Owning a Living Christmas Tree is tantamount to owning your home. When a family pays rent each month they end up with a bunch of paper that is either thrown into the fireplace or dropped into the garbage can. A cut Christmas tree usually has the same ending. A living Christmas tree, if well chosen, will last until the children are grown and gone from home and even then it will provide pleasant memories each holiday season.

Living Christmas trees can either be kept in a container or they can be grown in the garden where it can be seen and enjoyed from a window. And, you can keep it at just the size you like best with just a little judicious pruning when the weather is at its best in spring. Don't say it can't be done for the Japanese have been doing it for years.

If you wish to keep your tree in a container buy or make a container of a suitable size. We use a square container made with two-by-twelve inch redwood that is 24 inches each way at the top and 14 inches each way at the bottom. The sloping sides keep the container from looking cumbersom. Be sure to mount the container on a wheeled platform so that the tree can be moved easily. The wheeled platform also raises the bottom of the container up off the floor so a pan may be slipped under it to catch any rippings when it is in the house. At Christmas time a "tree skirt" can be used to hide the container or, a light platform in either a square or circular form, may be made to fit on top of the container to hold small figurines or gaily wrapped packages.

A pine tree does not have to be repotted each year. The Japanese usually repot their pine bonsais every three years. Those planted against a stone have some of the soil replaced every year.

We do not recommend the Monterey pine for a living Christmas tree either for the garden nor for container growing. This pine does not respond well to pruning so it would be difficult to keep it at a definite size. Also it is not too well shaped when young and the needles are too long.

Retire rich.

THE SECURITY RETIREMENT PLAN... an Individual Retirement Account.

Put up to $1500 each year in a tax shelter.
Earn the Bank's top interest.
Save taxes on the interest, too.

You can build a small fortune, and use it to supplement your Social Security retirement benefits.

Your Age Now	Total Deposited by Age 65		Total Interest Earned by Age 65		Your Total Nest Egg by Age 65*
30	$52,500	+	$207,175	=	$259,675
35	$45,000	+	$127,592	=	$172,592
40	$37,500	+	$ 75,033	=	$112,533
45	$30,000	+	$ 41,973	=	$ 71,973
50	$22,500	+	$ 20,639	=	$ 43,139
55	$15,000	+	$ 8,252	=	$ 23,252

*The above figures assume that you contribute $1,500 each year with no withdrawals and that your money earns 7.5% annual interest, the current maximum rate of interest allowed by law.

Give yourself a tax break. In addition to building a substantial nest egg, the Security Retirement Plan also allows you a considerable reduction in your current Federal income tax payments. The plan also allows you to defer paying taxes on the interest you earn.

How to make your savings snowball. Each year, you can put aside up to $1500 or 15% of your annual compensation for personal services—whichever is less—into your Security Retirement Plan. Save as much or as little as you wish.

Your savings accumulate and grow from the day of deposit. When they total $1000, you can have your money automatically invested in a Maxi-Growth Account, where it earns the highest interest rates permitted by law from the day we invest it.

What's so special about the Security Retirement Plan. It's flexible. Choose from two options; The Maxi-Growth or the Do-It-Yourself Plan.

To receive the full benefits of the Security Retirement Plan, put your qualifying savings—in a lump sum or in periodic deposits—in an Accumulation/Maxi-Growth account. The money you deposit earns interest from the day of deposit at our current regular savings rate. Each time your account reaches $1000, we automatically transfer those funds to your Maxi-Growth account.

If you prefer to do your own planning, choose the Do-It-Yourself option. Deposit your Security Retirement Plan funds in a lump sum each year. Or, make deposits throughout the year ($100 minimum). Specify that the money you deposit is for your retirement, and put it into the high interest earning Security Retirement Plan that pays selected rates of interest. If you like, we can tie the maturity dates of your savings to the day you retire, assuring you of maximum earnings and immediate availability of your savings on your retirement date.

How to start getting rich. Almost 50% of American workers qualify. You can start your Security Retirement Plan at any of the nearly 500 offices of Security Pacific Bank. We'll give you a free booklet that describes the plan in greater detail, and we'll be glad to answer any of your specific questions personally. The sooner you start, the richer we can make you.

'Back Road Sunday'

Rock Music at Honor Camp

By GEORGE GOLDING

The music of "Back Road Sunday" thumped and strummed through the redwood hollow at the end of Alpine Road, the musicians' casual garb contrasting with the convict blue of their audience.

This was the formal "audition" Friday of the musical group before inmates of the San Mateo County Sheriff's Honor Camp south of La Honda.

Six young men who have known each other since grade school, but who went their separate ways in music until recently, are "Back Road Sunday." They will star in a Dec. 19 concert to provide Christmas cheer for families of those Honor Camp prisoners.

"They were brought together by the law," smiles Dan Veenstra, youth director for the Service League of San Mateo County, which is staging the Christmas benefit at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds, from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Four of the "Back Road Sunday" members are ex-inmates of the Honor Camp, said Veenstra.

Inside the small mess hall a hundred or so denim-garbed young men tapped their feet to the music, clapped hands, nodded heads or just listened.

To some people, it might have been overly loud, loud enough to set up reverberations in the walls and floors of the metal building, loud enough to be heard perfectly clear outside.

But this was their music. Not only music of their time and lifestyle, but music played for them personally by some of the guys who also were inside until last week but are now out.

This was music that would be played for their families, next week, or for friends of their families, and while they will not be outside to enjoy it, this was a sample of the real thing.

Lloyd Liebes (upper left) is the leader and drummer, as well as singer. Hillton Farris (lower right) plays guitar, with Clyde La Mont on bass guitar and doing vocals. Xavier Gardner (lower left) mans the keyboard and Eddy Glinden beats rhythm on a set of bongos and sambas, while Dan Dierkes (upper right) adds melody with a sax. These Times photos are by Ray Zirkel.

The "first annual" prisoner's benefit show, said Veenstra, also offers the largest admission tickets anywhere, 8½ by 11½ inches. Advance tickets may be obtained from the Service League, 505 Middlefield Road, or tickets may be purchased at the door Dec. 19.

Baby Injured in Daly City Assault

A seven-week-old Daly City baby was reported in good condition today after a San Francisco man allegedly picked up a stroller the baby was lying in and threw it to the ground during a robbery.

Gregory Austin, was being wheeled home by Myrtle Watson about 2 p.m. Thursday when a man tried to grab the mother's purse on Second Ave., police said.

When she resisted, the man lifted up the stroller with the infant inside and, despite pleas by the mother, threw it to the sidewalk, according to police.

He then fled in a blue car containing three other persons.

About 30 minutes later, Officer Robert Blazer spotted the car at Los Olivos and San Diego streets, two miles from the robbery scene.

Arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon and robbery was Frank Green, 20, of San Francisco.

Earthworm Omelet Scores Hit

By GEORGE GOLDING

What's 72 per cent protein and lower than a snake's belly?

Earthworms, the newest taste sensation.

Earthworms, the ingredient which won 23-year-old Robert Smith of Millbrae and Half Moon Bay a chance for a $500 prize in Thursday's "earthworm recipe taste-off" in Southern California.

Smith's recipe for earthworm omelet was a runner-up, however, losing out in a menu of worm — including delicacies such as Deviled Shrimp Appetizer, Stuffed Peppers, Pea Souffle, Earthworm Patties Supreme, and Applesauce Surprise Cake. Top money went to the Applesauce Surprise.

Frank Carmody, director of marketing development and public relations for North American Bait Farms of Ontario, said 200 entires had been received "from all over North America."

Smith grew up in San Mateo, lives in Half Moon Bay and is Vice President of Millbrae Rents. He said he had never eaten earthworms when he heard about the contest and submitted five recipes.

"I still haven't," he admitted Thursday, "but we're planning a big breakfast celebration if my omelet wins."

Earthworm omelet?

"Six eggs, ¾ cup of chopped earthworms, 1 /3 cup of milk, ¼ cup of parsley, ¼ cup of sliced celery, a quarter of a small onion, 1 /3 cup of sliced mushrooms, 1 /3 cup of shredded American cheese, ½ teasoon freshly ground pepper, not too coarse, ½ teaspoon seasoning salt, a drop of garlic extract, six drops of Tabasco sauce, and a dash of Worcestershire sauce."

"You're invited."

Smith said he and his wife, Robin, were married last May and will use the $500, if his recipe wins, for a honeymoon trip.

Robin, he said, "is the dinner cook. I cook mostly breakfasts."

Carmody, a man with years of experience in the sometimes squirmy field of earthworms, said Smith should not rush that victory breakfast.

Worms are "entirely edible" by humans and animals, and "a real potential as a food source," but should be properly cleaned before cooking, he said.

"You scour them by putting them in corn meal or flour for 24 hours, then boil them and you're ready," he said.

Smith will receive $25 for each recipe accepted for a cookbook being published this spring by "Bookworms Publishing Company," a subsidiary of North American Bait Farms.

The book will be titled "Earthworms and the Ecology."

Its recipes were tested by a panel with impressive credentials, including the head of the Nutrition Department at California State Polytechnic College, Ronald Gaddie, president of North American Bait Farms, a Los Angeles radio announcer who became intrigued with vermiculture on hearing of the cookery contest, a Cal Poly anthropologist, and Dr. Ron Taylor, author of "Butterflies in My Stomach," a book about eating insects.

Carmody said his firm is not really trying to promote the use of earthworms for being eaten. Most of the worms North American produces, he said, are sold for bait, for improving soil, for detecting soil pollution, for devouring garbage.

The idea of worms as a food source, he said, is new to a lot of people.

Initiative Aims for Control of Purse Strings

Some 3,000 Californians are fed up with local and state elected officials voting themselves salary increases and are circulating a petition to get an initiative on the November ballot that, if passed, would give the people control of the purse strings.

All 3,000 are members of the People's Advocate, a Southern California based group, founded by Paul Gann.

Gann came to San Bruno Tuesday to recruit volunteers to help him circulate petitions throughout the Bay Area and talked briefly about the initiative and why he believed it should be approved.

The initiative, if passed, would amend the state constitution to provide that no increase in salary or expenses for the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state treasurer, secretary of state, state controller, the superintendent of public instruction, members of the Board of Equalization or the legislature or any judges would be granted unless the increase was approved by the majority of the voters in the state voting in a statewide election.

Similarly, no city or county elected official could be allowed a salary boost unless the voters in the city or county approved the increase by a majority vote.

The initiative also would roll back the pay of California public officials to what it was two years ago.

The People's Advocate Inc. gained statewide attention last year in its effort to force the legislature to repeal a pension bill that allowed elected officials to collect a pension even if they served only one term in office.

During the campaign to repeal that legislation, Gann promised he would work to get legislation passed that would never again allow legislators to set their own pension amounts or their own salaries.

According to Gann, legislators now earn $21,800 a year plus $30 a day for every day the legislature is in session.

This year, legislatores voted themselves a 10 per cent salary increase. The increase, however, will not go into effect until January 1977.

Gann says judges of a court of record are granted automatic salary increases. This year the increase, he said, was 12 per cent.

"Pretty soon our judges are going to be making upwards of $100,000 per year," Gann said. "We feel if a judge can't make it on the $50,000 a year he is making now, then he should start doing a little sacrificing."

Gann believes legislators are acting in a conflict of interest whenever they vote themselves pay raises.

"The conflict is undeniably there, if legislators can vote to raise taxes and then divert some of that tax money for their own use," Gann said.

"We don't think the legislators have used good judgment so far," he added. "While civil servants are being denied pay raises, legislators are giving themselves big raises.

"The civil servants know they are being lied to and maligned when the leaders in the state say there are no funds for pay raises, then turn around and give themselves raises."

Millbrae Issue

Council Doesn't Favor Dog Law

By RICK SULLIVAN

The Millbrae City Council Dec. 9 indicated it would not approve a staff recommended animal control ordinance that would require owners of more than two pets to apply for a permit to keep the pets within the city limits.

The council, however, did agree that a new ordinance should allow "qualified" humane officers to issue citations to persons who violate animal control laws.

A standing-room-only crowd jammed the Millbrae council chambers to protest an animal control ordinance proposed by the city staff that required owners of more than two dogs, to apply for a permit.

Councilman Bernard Esser said the crowd was the largest he had seen attend a council meeting in his 12 years on the council.

The city staff presented the council last month with an ordinance which updated an existing city law.

Besides requiring permits in some cases, the ordinance also prohibited the keeping of chickens, rabbits and birds as pets.

Before the council discussed the proposed ordinance Tuesday night and before the audience was allowed to speak on the issue, City Administrator Lee Horner recommended that provisions prohibiting keeping of chickens, rabbits and birds be deleted from the proposed law.

He also recommended that the provision requiring a permit for more than two dogs be deleted.

Horner suggested instead that the ordinance provide that a permit be required for the keeping of more than five pets, and for the keeping of more than two types of animals.

His suggestion did not sit well with the audience.

Representatives from local 4-H Clubs, dog obedience schools, dog owner associations, pet placement organizations and breeders paraded in turn before the council to protest the proposed ordinance.

Although nearly all speakers agreed the city needed to strengthen its existing animal control law, the vast majority apposed any provision which would limit the number of small animals a resident would be allowed to keep.

Duncan Wright, president of the American Dog Owners Association, charged that limiting the number of pets by ordinance would be unconstitutional.

Wright, who came to the meeting from Sacramento at the request of Millbrae resident "Dec" Decker, argued that pets are considered personal property and thus no governing agency can constituionally limit the amount of such property a person can keep.

Wright said his work with animals has shown that owners of several dogs are generally more sensitive to the rights of the community and do not usually let their dogs run loose.

He charged that single dog owners are primarily responsible for allowing dogs to roam the streets alone.

Barbara Bladen Jon Jory's Involvement

Jon Jory is a Shakespearean scholar but he's so deeply involved in regional theater that his conversation was as much of a criticism of the latter as it was informative of the former. He is involved in both on the local scene as director of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" which opened at the Geary Theater on the American Conservatory Theater roster Tuesday.

Now in his seventh season as Producing Director of the Actors' Theater of Louisville, the son of stage and screen actor Victor Jory is well versed in the problems of professional theater outside of New York.

"Regional theater is a small world. Bill Ball and his people have visited my theater and the one I co-founded at Long Wharf, New Haven, Conn., when I was 24 years old. My coming to San Francisco has been in the works for about 12 years," he said.

JON JORY
Born to a Tradition

"And then, Shakespeare is my hobby. I've done 11 of his plays but if Ball had given me a choice, I'd have given him 26 more. Productions of "Merry Wives' are very rare. It has good roles for character actors over 40 and ACT is rich in them. It's also not an easy play to stage and not well known by the general public.

"Some people don't think it's even well written but my specialty is problem solving and this play has a structural problem that I have to solve in production. Shakespeare, on his worst day, knew what he was doing so there is an enormous amount of trust.

"My own mistake with Shakespeare has been in not trusting the text. But then, there are structural problems in 'Hamlet,' too. There hasn't been a major Broadway revival since the 20's."

The 37-year-old director calls himself "a furniture maker" who adapts plays rather than writes them.

"That's a skill, not an art and it serves me usefully as a producer," he said.

In describing "Merry Wives," he reminded us that it was the only play set in Shakespeare's own period and country.

"It was the last character farce he wrote and it was done so at Queen Elizabeth's behest. The author wrote it, supposedly, in a 10-day period at a sociological crossroads when England and Shakespeare were changing.

"He obviously wrote it for the comedians he knew and whose comedic skills were available to him and his repertory company. An actor who doesn't know these skills has to get them from the script, a sort of comic cryptography in which you have to break the code.

"If the play is about anything, it's about the rise of the middle class at the end of the period when soldiers were the most important people of Elizabethan society. This play is about the absorption of these people. He never wrote another character like Falstaff," he said.

Jory has upheld the family theater tradition by directing his father Victor and his mother, actress Jean Inness (Nurse Fain on the Dr. Kildare TV series who used to correct Richard Chamberlain) in "Long Day's Journey," "Death of a Salesman," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." His sister teaches theater at the University of Utah.

"I've fattened on the tradition that is continuing. I'd like to do a production of 'Christmas Carol' with my father as Scrooge and my ten-month-old daughter. When I was a child my father belonged to a Hollywood group called 'The 18 Actors.' People like Robert Preston, Leon Ames, Lloyd Nolan, Dana Andrews and all their wives would gather in our living room for rehearsals. And then they'd sell out the Pasadena Elks Club," he concluded.

Pacifica Boosts Bus Service

Pacifica will provide extended bus service to the Daly City BART terminal until Christmas.

The City Council also has decided to seek two more buses from the San Mateo County Transit District.

City transportation analyst Kevin Roberts told the council Monday that the one-month-old city bus system appears to be very successful.

Buses are running at capacity, he said, and the original bus schedule was revised after the first day of operation because of a heavy demand for service to the Bay Area Rapid Transit terminal.

He told the council that although another bus was added to the BART route during the morning and evening commuter periods, larger buses are needed.

Roberts said it will be three to six months before the transit district will have buses available.

He recommended to the council that additional service be provided to BART on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and week nights until midnight until Christmas.

BART, he noted, also has extended its holiday service.

Transportation Development Act funds can be used to finance the added operational costs, Roberts said.

Mayor Stan Farber criticized encouraging Pacifica residents to do their Christmas shopping outside of Pacifica.

"Here we are promoting more money going out of town," Farber said.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford, however, said there might be some young persons in Pacifica who work in San Francisco for the holidays who need the extended night transportation.

The council unanimously approved the extended bus service on the hour, effective immediately.

At the same time, the council asked the transportation staff to study bus service to Skyline College, at the top of Sharp Park Road.

There have been complaints, council members said, that Pacifica residents can walk to the college faster than buses can take them there.

Roberts said the city presently can provide a route to the college only on the hour and that the route also covers other parts of the city.

In other business, the council:

• Voted 3-2 to ask the Metropolitan Transportation Commission to "hold in abeyance" any decision on the future of Route 380, until Pacifica residents express their sentiment on the proposed freeway from Pacifica to San Bruno in the March municipal election. Councilman Sidney Lorvan and Councilwoman Fulford voted "No."

• Directed a letter to the Public Utilities Commission asking that Greyhound bus service to coast cities north of Pacifica not be withdrawn until the county provides bus service equal to or better than Greyhound's.

Overlapping Rule Bugs Supervisors

County Supervisor Jean Fassler reluctantly accepted appointment to yet another committee Tuesday, stating she was "not supportive" of the position.

Mrs. Fassler will represent San Mateo County on the Environmental Management Task Force of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Purpose of the task force, according to an ABAG spokesman, is to study "the integration of water resources, air quality and solid waste planning.

"I'm not supportive of the way things are going," Mrs. Fassler commented. "We're overtaxed with input from jurisdictions that overlap. I don't see the involvement of elective people when it is a technical problem."

Mrs. Fassler was supported by Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., who observed that "The flower of government is in full bloom. It's growing from a petunia into a large sunflower. I don't see why Mrs. Fassler has to go to this damn thing. It is the reactive political creations that are making this job impossible."

Bacciocco said he didn't see any reason why a staff member couldn't represent the county.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald said Mrs. Fassler had agreed to serve on the task force.

Mrs. Fassler said she would attend at least one session of the group to "find out what it's all about."

Pacifica Losing Loving, Guiding Friend

By JANET PARKER

It has been 33 years since Grace and Carl McCarthy turned their one-room weekend cabin for golfing expeditions into a modest home and settled in Pacifica for good.

Since that move from a Nob Hill apartment in 1942, the couple has expanded their home and their interest in Pacifica.

And they have brought an appreciation of the city's natural setting to the community.

In just three months, Grace McCarthy will end her 12-year tenure on the City Council as successor to Supervisor Jean Fassler.

But many of the concerns she's had in city government will continue.

There are few city government leaders in San Mateo County who haven't come to know Grace McCarthy since her election to the council in 1964.

They've seen her at County Coastal Commission meetings. They've heard her speak out for taxation reform at the League of California Cities. And they've heard her pleas for historical recognition of the San Francisco Bay Discovery Site in her city.

"One of the things I have learned is patience," said the councilwoman in her hillside home overlooking the ocean. "When I was first on the City Council, I was frustrated because something wasn't happening as soon as I wanted."

She went to the city manager at that time and told him of her concern.

He told her the slow wheels of progress are among the greatest protections in government.

"That's one of the things that makes the American system work," she said.

Mrs. McCarthy is stepping down from her position at a time when Pacifica is facing its gravest financial situation.

The council learned recently that it could be insolvent before July, 1978.

But, she said, there is a time when she must move along and, she admits, she's passed the birthday when she received her Medicare card.

She's asked the City Council to adopt a resolution in support of a mandatory retirement age for its elected officials.

While the Civil Rights Act prevents discrimination because of age, she encourages individuals to bow out gracefully.

"I am one of the very few people who can support this concept," she said. She's in good health and already has received support for re-election, she said.

There is already a trend in this direction as a result of Social Security and the practice of private business,

(Times Photo)

GRACE McCARTHY OF PACIFICA
She's made herself heard

she said, adding there's no reason public officials should be any different.

It's evident, however, that this isn't the end of the line in public life for Grace and Carl McCarthy.

She and her husband have consistently worked for preservation of Pacifica's coastline and ridge and have had much to do with the preservation of the San Francisco Bay Discovery Site.

And she's an advocate of a scenic coastal route along Sweeney Ridge, separating Pacifica from San Bruno.

"A view isn't a view unless you can see it," she noted. "Unless people can get up to the ridge line and enjoy the view, it isn't a view."

It's not difficult to tell the McCarthys are outdoor oriented. They even met in Yosemite Park when they were in college.

Their home is nestled among trees and open space at the end of a narrow Pacifica street.

She's proud of the way Pacifica has planned its city and she hopes it will continue to be fair in its planning.

It's been the lack of an airport that's prevented the city from beginning a major convention area, she said.

"There's a great amount of land left in Pacifica that could be developed and not hurt anybody."

At the same time, she wants Pacifica to maintain the parks and open space which can provide a recreational enjoyment such as the watershed and Frontierland Park.

"I realize people have different tastes in recreation," she said. While she personally doesn't like the noise of motorcycles and never would ride one, she's worked hard to find a place for a motorcycle park in the city.

"We like to hike, but I recognize that many people cannot. That's why we need a linear recreational road."

Some individuals, she said, like to sit on the beach and eat, while others prefer to sit behind a plate glass window in a restaurant.

"There has to be some place for various things," she said. "Compromise is not a bad word."

She is a woman who seeks fair treatment for citizens who confront their government and she maintains firm views on governmental topics including:

Affirmative Action — "I don't like it when you get down to percentages. A city should go out and actively seek minorities, but shouldn't lower standards for their sake."

Public transportation — "I kept pushing and pushing it when public transportation wasn't popular. I know how hard it is to get around without a car."

Equal Rights Amendment — She calls herself a supporter — but "it concerns me when the state starts making quotas. The way it is being pursued loses sight of its real importance."

Public recreation — "If the city doesn't have a good recreation department, there will be a lot of kids with nothing to do. The city can't afford not to have one."

A civic center in Pacifica — "That's one of those things that's really important to work for. A well planned efficient building will provide much for the city."

Collective bargaining — "I don't know what we will do when we no longer have something to bargain with."

Her biggest hope in city government, she said, is that public agencies can get away from the "present trend of government by confrontation."

"The American system requires that we be considerate of various viewpoints," she observed.

While she is retiring from public office, Mrs. McCarthy says she has no intention of retiring from public life.

New County Congress Set

County Supervisor Chairman James V. Fitzgerald's crusade for creation of a Congress of Elected Officials in San Mateo County reached fruition this week.

Several elected officials from cities, school districts, special districts and the Board of Supervisors met Thursday night in Redwood City and agreed to create the Congress.

It may meet monthly, beginning sometime in January, Fitzgerald said.

Fitzgerald has been pushing to "develop a program of cooperation so that we can reduce the cost of government and eliminate duplication of services."

Thursday night's meeting agreed to form a Congress and an executive board.

Fitzgerald said the Congress would be comprised of the county's 19 cities, 23 school districts, six special districts in the County Transit Board, the County Board of Education and Board of Supervisors.

The supervisor said that the executive committee would be comprised of three members selected by the Council of Mayors, three members from school districts, three members from special districts and two members of the Board of Supervisors.

Fitzgerald said he hopes the new organization can take united stands on pending legislation, study possibilities of creating uniformity in areas such as test examinations for various employes like police and janitors and also develop joint programs to save money.

"There are 96 different taxing agencies in San Mateo County. Each of them has taxing authority and is independent of all others," Fitzgerald said.

"I strongly believe that we must reduce the size of government and thereby the cost of government," he added. "Unless some system of coordination is achieved, the only thing that will happen in the present tax reform programs is a shift in the tax from one group to another. The only solution is reducing the cost of government by reducing spending."

The Lure of the Big Top

By FRANK LaPIERRE

There's something about the smell of the Big Top and the roar of the lions, to paraphrase the well-known title of a long-running Broadway show.

The wooden bleachers seem softer as the show progresses through the first entry parade, until it exists more than an hour later.

Between the two parades, there are the animal acts, the high flyers, the walkers, the popcorn.

Perhaps I'm imagining all this, but it seemed to me while watching the recent Circus Vargas show at Tanforan Park, the most receptive part of the audience were the 40-years-and-older crowd.

Oh, sure, the kids loved it!

You could tell that by the screams of wild delight when the wilder tigers clawed the air inches from trainer Harry Thomas' head.

Thomas is reputedly the nation's youngest tiger trainer. He has been with Cliff Vargas' circus for the past two years.

"You couldn't pay me enough money to do that — get in a cage with a tiger," commented Rhona Winchell, the show's publicity director, while watching Thomas train some of his cats outside the main tent.

When the cats get angry they have the capacity to spring from the bottom of the cage up and almost over the 16-foot-high steel bar training cage, open at the top.

The "Biggest Act" under the big top is Wally Ross' elephants.

Wally has a way with these giant beasts.

For him they will sit, stand, roar, roll over and play dead and gently hoist a pretty girl 10 feet off the ground with their trunks.

Wally is not new to the animal kingdom, having won several "Patsie" awards for his work with animal performers for television and movies (in particular, "Dr. Doolittle") during his 42 years in show business.

Sir William Baker and his "Simon's Chimpanzees" act always delight the kids, regardless of their age.

And the Flying Latonys perform daily death-defying acts high above the ground.

There aren't too many of the big canvas tents around anymore, most circuses now perform inside convention structures, like Daly City's Cow Palace.

Since the tragic killer fire of the 1940s when Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus's big top caught fire and hundreds perished in the flames near Hartford, Conn., tents have been on the decline in this country.

Vargas says his tent is the biggest.

Wherever he goes with it, fire inspectors go over the tent to insure the public is safe.

It is Manuel (Junior) Ruffin's job as Boss Canvasman to put up and take down the tent. Ruffin started with the circus when he was 12-years-old. He was the first Black animal trainer in America.

Last year, Vargus took his circus 22,000 from coast to coast.

And Ruffin had to put up and take down the canvas, roll it up, pack it aboard waiting trucks and move it hundreds of times.

Elephants are still used to haul the tons of canvas to the top of four main supports. Without these giant beasts it would be impossible to accomplish this task, Vargas says.

Vargas calls his circus "a real circus," simply because he holds to the old tradition of performing under canvas.

He also is fond of pointing out that the circus — regardless of what circus it is — has never needed the services of a censor.

"The circus provides wholesome, fascinating entertainment that is

MAINTENANCE
A dab of paint, a little sweat and, presto, the cat cage is like new again. Maintenance of equipment comes whenever there is time to do it — not on a schedule around the circus world.

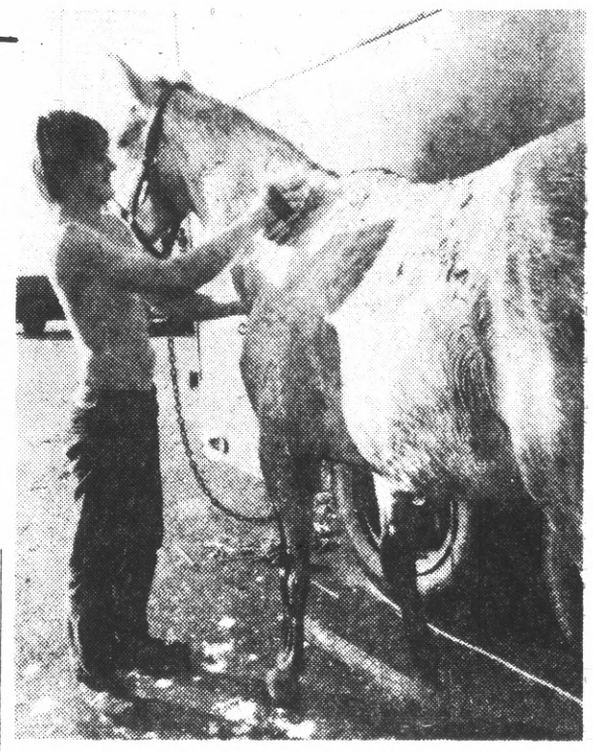
enjoyed by all ages," he said.

It was Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey's "The Greatest Show on Earth" that started that saying:

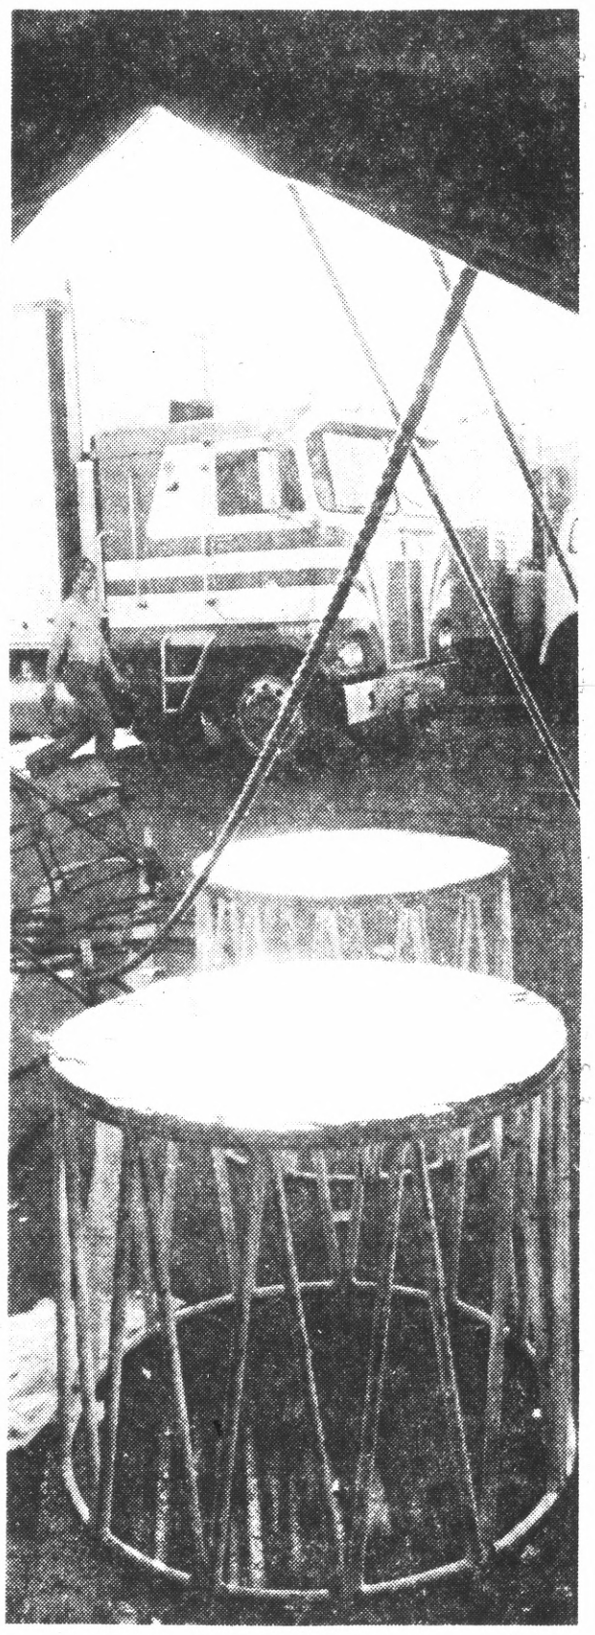
"Ladies and gentlemen, children of all ages."

Seems like yesterday when we heard the ringmaster call out the welcome. The smell of sawdust, canvas and perspiring animals. The taste of oversalted popcorn with cheap butter (or was it margarine?) dripping down my arm.

Those are the memories of the circus that will remain long after the names of the acts are forgotten, long after the tent stakes are pulled and the lot where the Big Top once stood is left vacant again.



WORK, TOO
Getting ready for the next show isn't all fun and games. Horses have to be scrubbed and brushed. Animals must be outfitted in their finest. No sirre, it's it's not all fun and games, but it is showbiz.



CAT TRAINER
Harry Thomas is perhaps the youngest cat trainer in the country. When he snaps his whip, the big tigers jump onto their perches and await his next command. This cage will soon be filled with the smell of the greasepaint and the roar of the lions.

Overlapping Rule Bugs Supervisors

County Supervisor Jean Fassler reluctantly accepted appointment to yet another committee Dec. 9, stating she was "not supportive" of the position.

Mrs. Fassler will represent San Mateo County on the Environmental Management Task Force of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Purpose of the task force, according to an ABAG spokesman, is to study the integration of water resources, air quality and solid waste planning.

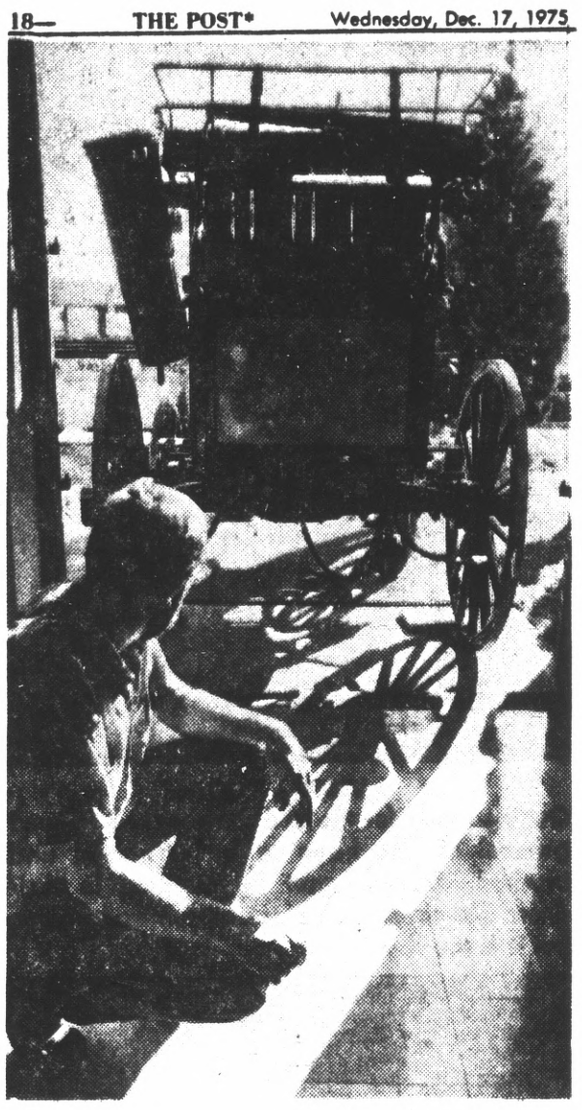
"I'm not supportive of the way things are going," Mrs. Fassler commented. "We're overtaxed with input from jurisdictions that overlap. I don't see the involvement of elective people when it is a technical problem."

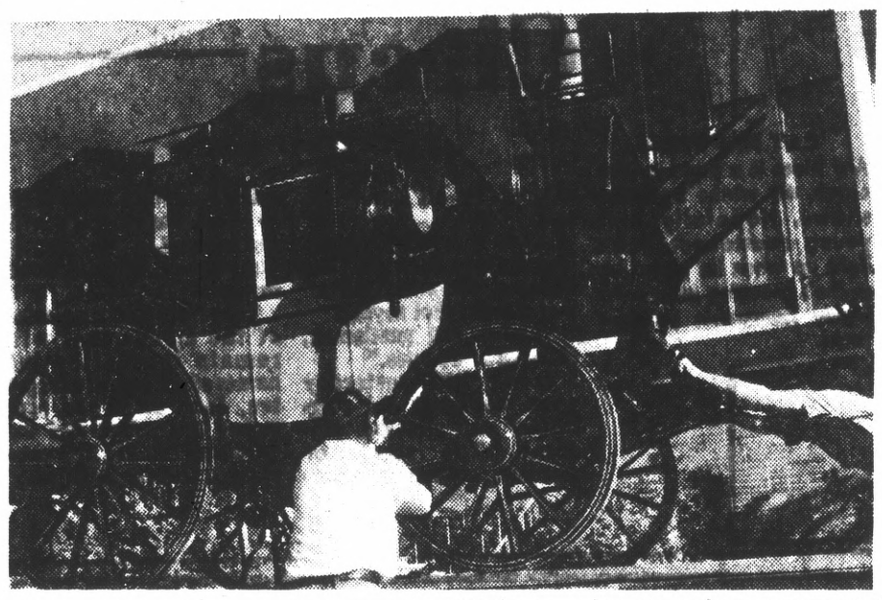
Mrs. Fassler was supported by Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., who observed that, "The flower of government is in full bloom. It's growing from a petunia into a large sunflower. I don't see why Mrs. Fassler has to go to this damn thing. It is the reactive political creations that are making this job impossible."

Bacciocco said he didn't see any reason why a staff member couldn't represent the county.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald said Mrs. Fassler had agreed to serve on the task force.

Mrs. Fassler said she would attend at least one session of the group to "find out what it's all about."





Suspect 'Released Too Soon' by State

The attorney for a Daly City man, whom the district attorney is seeking to send to the gas chamber said Tuesday that his client was prematurely released from a mental institution because of budget cutbacks.

Benny Harris, 31, entered pleas of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to charges that he murdered Richard Gee, 61, while trying to rob him last October near Gee's Daly City home.

Harris' attorney, Joseph Gruber, of San Bruno, told Judge Frank Piombo that "this isn't a death penalty case." The judge told him to schedule a date for a hearing on that aspect.

The judge appointed two psychiatrists to determine if Harris was legally insane at the time of the alleged offense. They are to report to the judge Dec. 29 at 10 a.m.

"This is one of those incidents where the state cut him from the mental institution when they cut the budget," Gruber told a reporter. "He's been an out-patient for over a year and he cannot function without medications.

"He's been under supervision," Gruber continued. "But he shouldn't have been released . . . society is feeling the mismanagement."

According to Gruber, Harris has been in mental institutions for most of the past 10 years.

The Standard Road Coach

That's the name of the beautiful road coach which was hauled up to the San Mateo County Historical Association Museum at the College of San Mateo this week. It is one of the most outstanding vehicles in the famed collection of Mrs. William P. Roth. Originally delivered from New York to a C. W. Watson on Nov. 16, 1904, its price tag was $2,800. Today its value is many more thousands. It was originally white and Essex green and came equipped with iron ladder, watch and case, tufted driving cushion, hat rack, five coat hooks, a mirror and stable shutter — and a rear wine cooler with fitted tray for glasses. Also there is an umbrella basket and the interior seats are covered in tufted black leather. Total weight is about 2,400 pounds. Interestingly, the private coachman could wear neither mustache nor beard, since "this was an indication of ignorance of his calling." Four matched horses with polished harness and monograms and identiclly costumed grooms completed the spectacular unit. The entire Roth carriage collection may be viewed by groups making appointment through the historical association.

Bruno Chase Ends in House

The driver of a pickup truck being chased by San Bruno police lost control at a corner and smashed into the home of Verna L. Martin, 2280 Charleston Ave., Sunday night.

Police said the truck, being driven by Michael William Lindsey, 26, ended up in the living room of the Martin home, extensively damaging both the vehicle and house.

Lindsey, charged with drunken driving and failure to possess a license, was taken to Chope Community Hospital for treatment of facial lacerations, police said.

The crash ended a chase which started at about 8:45 p.m. in the Crestmoor area, went up one side and down the other on San Bruno Avenue at speeds of 75 miles per hour, and ended up in the living room of the Martin home.

No one inside the home was hurt, police said.

Colma Doughnut Shop Robbed

Two men, simulating weapons in their coat pockets, held up the Rolling Pin Doughnut Shop in Colma this morning and fled with about $1,000 after tying up a cook with aprongs.

No guns were seen by the victim, police said.

The pair walked into the shop shortly after 3:30 a.m. and ordered Marty Kerr to lie on the floor. They next went to a wall safe and forced it open with a hammer, Broadmoor police said.

Freeing himself, Kerr called police a few minutes later.

Bicentennial Songs Show Wit, History

By LIN DAY

A while ago, as Georgia and Georgia Tech football teams fought it out before a national television audience, a song rang out again and again from the stands. Modern tviewers know it as the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and many associate it with the northern side of the Civil War.

For this to come from Georgia, which suffered severe damage from Gen. Sherman's army, appeared strange.

It will not appear strange to those who read a new, illustrated book written by a Burlingame educator and author, William R. Ward — "The American Bicentennial Song Book" (Charles Hanson, $9.95 and $12.95).

It actually is a southern song, written by William Steffe of South Carolina about 1856. A camp meeting song, with a "Glory Halleluja" chorus, it swept the South and then the nation with its infectious melody.

Early in the Civil War, a Boston regiment sang a parody about John Brown of Kansas, who had stood against slavery. They sang it in jest to tease a member of the regiment also named John Brown: "John Brown's body lies a'moldering in the ground . . ."

Julia Ward Howe heard the version and wrote the new words, those used today. Soon the song became identified with the northern cause. It became one of the three great American patriotic songs.

Interestingly enough, a second, "Dixie," sung by the South, was written by a northerner, Daniel Decatur Emmett, for a minstrel group in 1859. What was considered the national anthem of the South, and one of the most stirring songs ever written, Ward points out, was actually written by an abolitionist.

He finds it of interest today that currently "Dixie" is under fire in another southern state.

Dr. Ward, professor of music at San Francisco State University and for many years the chairman of the music department there, points out that both songs are too big to be contained in any one region.

He lists the third great song as "America the Beautiful." This song, he notes, is all-American in writing and lyric, whereas the music for "The Star Spangled Banner" was written by an Englishman.

His bicentennial book, which traces America's significant songs back to the period before the American Revolution, reveals many secrets known only to the initiated, even while it puts things in proper perspective.

The music for "Star Spangled Banner" originally was written by John Stafford Smith in 1775 to go with a convivial poem authored by Ralph Tomlinson. It celebrated wine, women and song with such frivolity that societies were set up both in England and America to enjoy it. Known originally as "Anacreon in Heaven," it celebrated the pagan frolic of the Greek gods.

The melody was picked up patriotically in the United States, Ward points out, by Robert Treat Paine, who wrote a parody called "Adams and Liberty." Paine's popular song steered the nation to a course of isolation, avoiding involvement after the Revolution in a new war that had broken out between Great Britain and France.

Preceding the great lyric written by Francis Scott Key, the Paine song sets to what is now the national anthem words as worthy to the national tradition.

A sample verse:

"Ye sons of Columbia who bravely have fought for those rights which unstained from your sires had descended. May you long taste the blessings your valor has bought. And your sons reap the soil which your fathers defended. Mid the reign of mild peace, may your nation increase, with the glory of Rome and the wisdom of Greece. And ne'er may the sons of Columbia be slaves while the earth bears a plant or the sea rolls its waves."

The Ward book contains the sheet music, as well as comments, for a host of songs linked to the nation's history. The first of two volumes (the second is in production) covers the first hundred years of the nation, and contains more than 160 songs.

It is in his comments that Ward gives his book the unusual flair which is sure to popularize it.

For example, he points out that when Abraham Lincoln entered Ford's Theater the fatal night of his assassination, the orchestra conductor interrupted the spoken lines of the play to lead the orchestra in the last song he was to hear, one written by an English musician named James Sanderson, with the lyric a poem dedicated to Scotch clans by Sir Walter Scott.

The song is "Hail to the Chief," first printed in America in 1812, and used in the inaugural of President James Polk in 1845 and for presidents ever since.

To those who love music, there are many rare songs uncovered by Ward during the 15 years he has taught a course linking music and American history.

There is a song, for example, which George Washington liked, called "How Happy the Soldier," with a rollicking lyric. There's "Windham," now passed into folk tradition, a hymn sung by the soldiers and populace alike.

There's "Chester," known as the "Marsaillaise of the American Revolution," and as popular with American soldiers as "Yankee Doodle."

A sample verse: "The Foe comes on with haughty Stride, Our troops advance with martial noise, their veterans flee before our youth, and generals yield to beardless boys."

Ward points out that the classic "The Girl I Left Behind Me," was sung not only in World War II but by Washington's soldiers in the Revolution. Originally, it was an Irish tune.

The Revolutionary period songs include "The Liberty Song," sung even before Bunker Hill . . . "No tyrannous acts shall suppress our just claim or stain with dishonor America's name." It was songs such as that which united Americans and gave unity and fervor to the nation, Ward finds.

Readers may be surprised at how long those songs have been with us, in one form or another. Songs such as "Oh, Dear! What Can the Matter Be," "Hail Columbia," and "Nobody" date back to the 1700s.

"Home Sweet Home," "Hush Little Baby," "The Old Oaken Bucket" and "Skip to My Lou" surfaced just after the War of 1812. "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" came well before the Civil War.

The songs sung by the pioneers on the wagon trains, by the cowboys in the New West, and even by the founders of this state are in the bicentennial book. There's one called "California Ball," written to the tune of "Wait for the Wagon" that undoubtedly was heard in San Francisco in its wildest days.

Dr. Ward, a native of Norton, Kan., resides at 120 Occidental Ave., Burlingame, and has lived here since 1952. He received his bachelor of music and bachelor of music education degrees at the University of Kansas in 1941, a master of music degree at the University of Rochester in 1942, and his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Rochester in 1954.

Instructor of music at Colorado State University at Fort Collins during World War II, he was assistant professor of music at Lawrence University after the war and was appointed to the music faculty of San Francisco State University in 1947. He chaired the unviersity's music department from 1954 to 1969. Since then he has been professor of music. He has lectured extensively.

He has served as choir director in several cities over the years, at the First Baptist Church, Burlingame, from 1949 to 1963 and at the United Methodist Church, Burlingame, from 1967 to the present time.

The winner of the National Arrangers Contest in 1947, Dr. Ward is listed in "Who's Who in America" and "Who's Who in the United States." He developed the first bachelor of music degree offered by a state-supported college or university in California, and has led the expansion of his university's music department to 600 majors.

Capt. Hartnett Retirement

San Mateo County Sheriff's Capt. Donald J. Hartnett will conclude nearly 30 years of service with the department when he retires next March 31.

Hartnett, whose family has 100 years of law enforcement experience, joined the sheriff's department July 1, 1946, after six years of service with the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific during World War II.

He was promoted to his present rank in 1963, serving as head of the investigation division for two years until being assigned as head of the corrections division.

Hartnett's late father, John, was deputy police chief in Burlingame for 31 years. The captain's brother, Robert, is a lieutenant with 28 years service in the sheriff's office, and his son, Donald J. Hartnett Jr., is a sergeant with eight years experience in the Menlo Park Police Department. The younger Hartnett's wife, Celia, is a criminalist with the sheriff's office crime laboratory.

Capt. Hartnett's other son, James, also hopes to become involved with the law. He is a first-year law student at the University of Santa Clara School of Law.

Hartnett, 54, of Redwood City, notes that there is an international aspect to his family. His son Donald's wife is a native of South Africa. James's wife is a Japanese woman he met and married while in the service in Japan.

And, Hartnett adds, his step-mother, Madeline Hartnett, "an 89-year-old who acts like she is 40," is a Basque, a native of the Pyrenees Mountains area of Spain.

Somehow, Hartnett's daughter, Kathy, missed the law enforcement angle. She is a secretary at Farinon Electronics in San Carlos.

A brother, Richard, is involved in law enforcement. He is with the probation department in San Diego County.

Two other brothers have extensive experience in the postal service. Jack Hartnett recently retired as assistant postmaster of Burlingame, and Gerald Hartnett is superintendent of mails in the Burlingame post office.

Hartnett and his wife, Rosemary, who is a sister of County Supervisor William H. Royer, plan to do some extensive traveling.

"I have a nice truck and a 23-foot trailer," Hartnett says. "We plan to see the United States, Mexico and Canada, and then we will go overseas for a year or so."

Weddings And Engagements

STAGNER-MOORE

At home in Redwood City after a honeymoon in Mendocino are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Patrick Moore (Theresa Anne Stagner) who exchanged vows at the Valley United Presbyterian Church in Portola Valley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Postlethwaite of Belmont, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Moore of San Francisco.

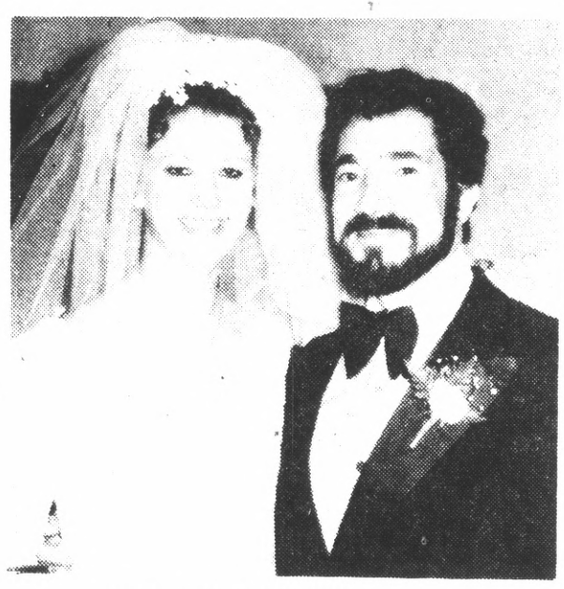
AYDELOTT-ALLEN

Honeymooning in the Hawaiian Islands before establishing a home in Menlo Park are Dr. Robert Haynes Allen and his bride, the former Christine Louise Aydelott. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Aydelott of San Mateo and the late Mr. Aydelott, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen of Hillsborough. Valley United Presbyterian Church in Portola Valley was the nuptial site Saturday afternoon.



THE JOSEPH BONGIORNOS
(Gwen Speers)

Lake Tahoe was the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bongiorno who were married recently at the Canada Cove Clubhouse in Half Moon Bay.

The bride is the former Gwen Speers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greggains of Half Moon Bay. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vito Bongiorno of Flushing, N.Y.

The Rev. Dave Ellis officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a reception at the same site. The couple is living in San Jose.

Gwen recited her vows in a floor length gown of organza with a neckline of peaked flowers and baby pearls. The same flowers and pearls detailed the train and sleeves.

Donna Greggains, the matron of honor, wore a pink gown with blue and yellow flowers as did Tammy Speers, the flower girl.

Vandals Again Strike At Capuchino High

There have been nine burglaries in less than two months at Capuchino High School in San Bruno, resulting in thousands of dollars in damage from vandals, police report.

Two more burglary incidents were reported over the past weekend.

In most cases, according to police, the vandals break out a window, enter the school and raise havoc in the cafeteria section.

Police said the vandals so far have "been very lucky, but we'll get them."

Visitors Tell Where Parks Needed

San Mateo County residents who visited the county's parks last summer are about evenly divided over where they believe additional county parks are needed.

County Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr. reported to the Parks and Recreation Commission this week that a survey of 3,361 park visitors showed that 52 per cent prefer additional county parks on the bayside, while 48 per cent said additional parks should be located on the coastside.

There was almost unanimous support from county residents for the acquisition and development of parks and open space, Brook said.

He related that 96 per cent of those surveyed favor purchasing lands for the preservation of open space or scenic areas; 95 per cent favor the 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax for acquisition and development of park land; and 91 per cent favor the acquisition of ocean frontage for park purposes.

In response to the question of what kinds of parks and park facilities are needed most, Brook reported the following results:

- Almost 50 per cent favor natural parks for camping and picnicking, nature study or wilderness areas for backpacking, hiking and open space.
- Approximately 25 per cent mentioned swimming pools, beaches or other facilities.
- San Bruno Mountain, Crystal Springs Reservoir, the Skyline area and the Filoli estate near Woodside were the most often mentioned specific areas where parks are desired.
- Local parks and specific recreation facilities, such as motorcycle parks, golf courses, tennis courts, bicycle trails and hostels, nude swimming and sunbathing areas, fishing piers, and more picnic areas were mentioned by 10 to 15 per cent of the visitors.

Brooks reported that 48 per cent of the visitors expressed a preference that 75 to 100 per cent of available funds be spent on acquisition of new parks.

Pony gives you lots more engine and horsepower than either of them and more than Toyota Corolla too. It also surrounds you with more pounds of protection. Check the no cost extras. Check the style. Lively Election Shaping

At least one new councilman will be elected in what is promising to be a widely challenged City Council election in Pacifica.

As of Thursday, one incumbent and six other persons had taken out filing papers for the council.

The terms of both Aubrey Lumley and Grace McCarthy will expire in March.

Mrs. McCarthy already has indicated she will not seek re-election.

Lumley, however, has taken out filing papers.

Pacifica residents who have taken out papers for the council seats this week include Barbara Pruett, Don Halverson, Fred Howard and Mark Savage.

Robert Berry and Ken Faria obtained filing papers from City Hall last week.

Mrs. Pruett, a Pacifica resident for 12 years, is a member of Active Women Advancing Responsible Environment. She has five children who have attended schools in Pacifica.

Halverson is a former member and chairman of the Pacifica Planning Commission.

He also was appointed to the City Council in 1972 to fill the brief remaining term of Councilman Nick Gust, who had resigned.

Also taking out papers was Fred Howard. He has served as a member and chairman of the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission and presently serves on the Planning Commission.

Savage has been director of the Youth Service Bureau for more than three years. He also has been the city's director of finance, business assistant for the Laguna Salada School District and he is the treasurer of the San Mateo County Mental Health Association. He has resided in Pacifica eight years.

Berry said he is a frequent participant in discussion at City Council and Planning Commission meetings. He attends Skyline College and is assistant director of the Christmas Bureau, as well as a member of the Sharp Park Improvement Council.

Faria said he has been involved in civic issues and has been a resident of Pacifica six years.

The filing period closes Dec 24.

Senior Lunches

Lunches for senior citizens in San Mateo County are served Monday through Friday at five locations. The meals cost 35 cents for persons aged 60 and older, $1.25 for those under 60.

Transportation can be arranged by contacting officials at the local lunch sites. The meals are served at noon. Here are the lunch locations:

- St. Francis of Assisi Church, 1425 Bay Road, East Palo Alto.
- Fair Oaks Community Center, 2600 Middlefield Road, Redwood City.
- Martin Luther King Rec Center, 725 Monte Diablo Ave., San Mateo.
- Lincoln Rec Center, 901 Brunswick St., Daly City.
- St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Ave., South San Francisco.

Here is the menu for the week of Dec. 8 to 12:

- Monday — roast beef sandwich, diced beets, coleslaw, vanilla ice cream, milk, coffee or tea.
- Tuesday — tuna noodle casserole, salad, cauliflower, peach shortcake, milk, coffee or tea.

Anti-trust Action Is Filed

Two major anti-trust suits have been filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco against four Bay Area glass distributors and their suppliers by a firm charging it was boycotted and couldn't buy glass supplies from them.

The plaintiff in the first case is the Great Northern Glass Co., 237 Harbor Drive, South San Francisco, which alleges that the eight defendants refused to sell them any automotive glass parts and together boycotted Great Northern in their wholesale distribution of glass products. The suit charges the defendants with monopolizing the Bay Area market, valued at approximately $7 million a year.

The Bay Area defendants were listed as: West Coast Glass Distributors, Globe-Amerada Glass Corp., Mygrant Glass and United Glass. Also named were their suppliers Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Libby-Owens-Ford, Ford Motor Co. Carlight Division and Chrysler Corp. Mopar Division.

The second suit, against the same eight defendants is a class action suit on behalf of the San Francisco Bay Area Retail Glass Dealers, charges that since 1969 the defendants knowingly have combined to fix and regulate the price of automotive glass parts to independent and franchise glass dealers. This alleged conspiracy has resulted in diminished profits to retail dealers and in many cases has caused financial hardships, according to the suit.

Specific charges included violations of sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and section 3 of the Clayton Act.

EYES HAVE IT

Optometry Services Now at Health Center

Within the past few months, Guadalupe Health Center in Daly City has expanded its range of medical, dental, family planning and OB-GYN services to include comprehensive optometry services.

With the assistance of the University of California School of Optometry, a comprehensive vision clinic has been set up at Guadalupe under the direction of Dr. Anacleto Gutierrez.

The vision clinic is Pictured are by interns from the U.C. School of Optometry and offers full services including eye and vision examinations, contact lenses, claucoma screening, ocular health examinations and testing for eye turns.

The vision clinic also has facilities for prescribing and ordering glasses, frames and soft or hard contact lenses.

In addition to being able to provide the full services of the optometry clinic, patients enrolled at Guadalupe also have the advantage of the Center's sliding fee scale.

The optometry clinic is now accepting patient appointments.

Any interested individuals who are already registered at Guadalupe Health Center should call 755-7740, ext. 54 or 55 and ask for the optometry secretary, Ms. Rose Duran.

Those persons who are not already enrolled at Guadalupe should call 755-7740, ext. 25, and ask for Emilio Rodriguez to be enrolled at Guadalupe.

These latter persons should bring a copy of their Medi-cal registration or check stub, a copy of their latest telephone and PG&E bill, and a copy of any insurance policy under which tve coverage.

Guadalupe Health Center offers bi-lingual services and is specifically here for the benefit of the people of Daly City and surrounding areas of north San Mateo county.

Candidates

Two of the three South San Francisco councilmen whose terms will expire in March have taken out nomination papers to seek re-election.

The third councilman, Fred Mammini, has not.

Councilmen Warren Steinkamp and Terri Mirri have indicated they will seek re-election.

Last week, Edward Severson, a resident of South San Francisco for 13 years, also took out papers.

Persons who obtained filing papers from the city clerk earlier were William Borba, a former councilman; Emanuele Damonte, principal of Los Cerritos School; William Craib, a parks and recreation commissioner; Roberta Teglia, a planning commissioner; and Ronald Acosta, an employe of Transport Indemnity co.

$21 Million In UAL Fund

United Airlines has already qualified for more than $21 million in Mutual Aid Pact payments from airlines which remain in operation during the Machinists Union strike, according to the Air Line Pilots Association.

ALPA announced in Washington tody that MAP payments to United total $3,097,487 per day.

Mutual aid payments are based on a percentage of daily operating expenses; thus United, the world's largest airline, receives more from MAP than National, which has been on strike 103 days.

National has now "earned" $44,658,639 in Mutual Aid income, in more than three months of strike, while United has qualified for more than $21 million in only seven days.

Mutual Aid Pact member airlines agree to support each other during strikes, on the basis that whose which remain in operation will pick up business from those which are closed.

Currentlv, American, TWA, and Hughes Airwest have announced increases in reservations and ticketing staff to accommodate passengers being forced off United.

Area Couple Wed on Coast

Hope Lutheran Church in Daly City was the setting for the marriage of Janet Carol Petsche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kurt Petsche of San Bruno, and Mark Langley Bryant. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Elliot of San Jose.

The couple, who exchanged vows before the Rev. David Peyer of St. Thomas Lutheran Church in San Bruno, greeted wellwishers after the rites at Forest Lodge in San Francisco. They honeymooned in Northern California, and are now living in San Jose.

Linda Richter of San Bruno was her sister's honor attendant, and Judy Ouellette of San Jose, sister of the bridegroom, shared secondary attendants' duties with Joan Ronnow of Clements and Kathleen Olson of Felton.

Mark asked his brother, Kerry Bryant of Redwood City, to be the best man. Ushers included his brother-in-law, Stephen Ouellette of San Jose; the bride's brother-in-law, Stephen Richter of San Bruno, and the bridegroom's cousin, Jay Mollette of Pacifica.

The newlyweds are both Crestmoor High School graduates. Janet completed her education at San Jose State and Mark earned his bachelor's degree from San Jose City College.

Heart Warmers Seek $25,000

By LIN DAY

The Heart Warmers, a San Mateo County interfaith organization which visits patients in eight hospitals, is opening a campaign to raise $25,000 to provide staffing, expenses and expansion.

Founded here three years ago by Dr. U.S. Mitchell and his wife, Viola, the agency has grown from a handful to 25 volunteers, many of them clergy, who visit area patients. About 25 per cent of the patients are terminal cases.

The present budget has been about $5,000 a year for the necessary incidentals, such as telephone, postage, stationery and printing, car expenses, office supplies and other needs in connection with the daily visitations.

The organization, according to spokesman Don Ross, has found "the load too heavy for one man" — Dr. Mitchell. He has been operating from an office in his home at 550 Ventura Ave., San Mateo, and has acted as "chaplain-counselor" and combined administrative duties with traumatic personal counseling.

Ross said the Heart Warmers hope to obtain at least two part-time associate chaplains to assist, and a full-time coordinator of volunteers.

Janice Livingstone Bay, manager of the Mills Square Medical Building in San Mateo, has been chief coordinator in making assignments. She has averaged 20 to 30 volunteer hours a week in addition to her 8-hour-a-day job. "At no time has she ever been paid a salary nor suggested one," Ross said.

Violoa Mitchell

Filling a great need in convalescent hospitals, the volunteers are now visiting more and more referrals, with a potential patient load of 750. Each volunteer is provided with three or four names who need the services of a visitor.

The visiting Heart Warmers counsel, cheer, and perform personal errands. Sometimes, particularly with the very ill and terminal patients, or with the despondent and lonely, they provide spiritual consolation or psychological uplift.

They play cards or other games, or they are just helpful.

The volunteers have made about 2,500 patient calls, but many more volunteers and visits are needed, he said. Additionallv, the success of the program has encouraged expansion to all Bay Area counties, if funding can be achieved, Ross noted.

CC Trustees Seek Funds for Color TV

Trustees of the San Mateo Community College District Wednesday approved a district application for $450,000 in federal funds to help upgrade College of San Mateo's television station, KCSM.

However, the trustees did so with the proviso that, if the government should grant the funds, the district may still refuse the money if it can't meet matching requirements without strapping the district.

According to a report from the administration, even with the federal grant, the district would have to shell out another $622,081 over a two-year period to bring the station up to color capability.

Some district officials have been urging that the district provide KCSM with color capability to increase the range of the station, to provide students with more modern hands-on experience and to improve the whole range of public information functions of the station.

Trustee Fran Pearson said, "This is one of the strongest and best educational tools we have."

It was pointed out that, in the future, if community college funds become as tight as predicted, television might be the best and most economical way to bring classes to the greatest number of students.

"I'm inclined to keep our options open for now," said Trustee James Tormey.

Still, there was at least one dissenter, Trustee Eleanore Nettle. She said her refusal to agree with the majority was the result of her conviction that the station does not have a definite priority in the district's scheme of things. "I think this would be a pig in a poke, an irresponsible action," she offered.

She said the size of the grant, which would come from the federal department of Health, Education and Welfare, was "shocking" when one considers "the kind of human and educational needs which are not being met."

The vote to approve the application was 3-1. Trustee Robert Tarver was absent.

It was emphasized that the reason for the rush to come to a decision on the application was the fact that HEW has imposed a Dec. 12 deadline on such submissions.

In another matter affecting district costs, the trustees voted 4-0 to drastically change the way some community services courses are paid for.

Three categories of courses are going to be established. And in those categories, various ways to recover costs will be tried.

These are the categories:

- Costs essentially nonrecoverable (choir and orchestra concerts, senior citizens days, etc.)
- Costs recovered, in part, from fees.
- Costs recovered totally from fees.

That last category elicited some comment from district officials.

John Peterson, president of Skyline College in San Bruno, said "This will result in a sharp change. Costs of participation in courses in this category will become substantial. Those programs will disappear."

Clifford Denney, district director of planning, said, "The North County will be severely affected by this. It could kill community services at Skyline as we know it today."

The trustees did not disagree that Wednesday's step represents a major alternation in past practices.

Mrs. Nettle said, "We aren't going to be able to act as we have. We are going to have to cooperate more with other districts."

Tormey noted that the district was getting a jump on the state by acting now. He said the state will probably soon crack down on non-credit adult courses, some of which can be found in the broad community services category.

He said the district's attempt to control its costs in this area may have been mandated by the state in the future anyway.

In other matters, the trustees:

- Delayed action on a bid from a Mountain View doctor, Henry Lenartz, who wants to lease a portion of the district's Coastside property for oil and natural gas exploration. It was pointed out by Trustee Carl Ward that the district acquired that land from the Cowell family on the condition that it would be used for educational purposes only. He questioned whether a lease for Dr. Lenartz would violate that agreement.
- Learned that the administration has adopted a set of procedures for the orderly transfer of faculty from one district campus to another. A request by a member of the faculty to have the new procedures submitted to the district's Certificated Employes Council was heard by the board but not acted upon.

Papan Revives Rail Committee

Following more than a year of investigation, Assembly Speaker pro Tempore Louis J. Papan (D-San Mateo County) has announced the reconvening of his special subcommittee on the San Francisco Peninsula Rail Commuter Service Dec. 18.

"As a result of the hearings held last year we were able to pass six pieces of legislation involving the Southern Pacific Commuter service and the California Public Utilities Commission," Assemblyman Papan said.

Originally scheduled for hearing on Dec. 10, the meeting was postponed until 9:30 a.m. Dec. 18, at 150 Oak St., San Francisco, Department of Transportation Building.

Assemblyman Papan began his investigation into the Southern Pacific application in September of last year during two days of hearings in Burlingame.

Later, in October, the Subcommittee reconvened to hear testimony and gather information during a hearing in San Francisco.

Testimony during the upcoming hearing will involve the highly critical Auditor General's report on the cost figures provided to the California Public Utilities Commissio by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company concerning the cost involved in operating the Peninsula service, Papan said.

Representatives of Price-Waterhouse and Company are expected to testify on results of their recent study commissioned by the Southern Pacific Transportation Company, also relating to costs of operating.

Serving on the Subcommittee, appointed by Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, will be Assemblymen Howard Berman (D-Sherman Oaks), John Miller (D-Emeryville), John Foran (D-San Francisco), Dixon Arnett (R-Redwood City), Alister McAlister (D-San Jose), Victor Calvo (D-Mountain View), and Richard Hayden (R-Sunnyvale).

Papan will chair the hearing.

The following bills relating to the San Francisco Peninsula Commuter Service were authored by Papan and passed during the first half of the current legislative session:

AB 952 — makes a public utility liable for fines up to $500,000 upon the conviction of one of its officials for committing perjury before the California Public Utilities Commission. Also extends felony provisions to corporate officials and others responsible for the preparation of documents for presentation to the Commission.

AB 951 — makes available gas sales tax revenues to local transit districts for subsidizing rail commuter service.

AB 1873 — prohibits the Southern Pacific Transportation Company from junking or otherwise disposing of any rail passenger equipment without the permission of the California Public Util ....ties Commission

AB 1754 (Signed into law as SB 283.) — provides funds for studying transit alternatives along the West Bay Corridor.

AB 857 and AB 858 — requires the California Public Utilities Commission to take into consideration the views of local transit districts when considering transportation rate increases.

Temple Sets Services on Friday

Sabbath Services will be observed at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Dec. 19, at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be led by Rabbi Ira Book assisted by Cantor Jacob Graudenz, who will chant the liturgy.

Highlight of the evening will be the performance by the choir, led by Richard Altman, choir director and organist.

The choir will accompany Cantor Graudenz when he chants the liturgy.

At the conclusion of services, an Oneg Shabbat (social hour) will be held, hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood.

THE LOUIS ARATAS
(Linda Carlton)

Arata-Carlton Wedding

Willowside Farms in Pescadero is the first address for Louis James Arata and his bride, Linda Sue Carlton, who were married at the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew's.

The Rev. Lesley Wilder performed the afternoon ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in San Mateo. After greeting guests, the newlyweds departed with the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Arata of San Gregorio, in a decorated four-seater wagon pulled by two horses from the Arata farm. The newlyweds honeymooned in Hawaii.

The new Mrs. Arata is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carlton of Pacifica. A graduate of Terra Nova High School, the bride also has studied at Cal Poly in Pomona and Colorado State University. She has been active in 4H, the Brownies and Girl Scouts and is now an affiliate of the California Jersey Cattle Club and an associate member of Holstein-Friesian.

The bridegroom, who also is an associate member of Holstein-Friesian, is an alumnus of Pescadero High School. He is now working on the farm owned by his father and uncle, Clarence Arata, who raise dairy heifers for market and grow oats, barley and wheat. He and his bride met while both were working for a dairy company in Half Moon Bay.

For her wedding, Linda wore an ivory-colored floor length gown styled with floral appliques and seed pearl detailing. Members of her bridal party wore ivory satin blouses and A-line floor length rust colored velvet skirts.

Sawyer Road Closing Asked

The San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Commission voted unanimously Wednesday to again recommend that scenic Sawyer Camp Road be closed to motor vehicle traffic.

A similar recommendation was rejected by the Board of Supervisors last July 8.

In its action rejecting the earlier recommendation, the board directed that the commission consider alternatives to the closure of the seven-mile stretch of scenic roadway which would permit vehicular use on a controlled basis, as well as provide for increased use by bicyclists and hikers.

In a report and recommendation to the commission Wednesday, County Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr. and County Engineer S.H. Cantwell Jr. submitted five alternatives for consideration.

The alternative recommended and accepted by the commission calls for the paving of a 12-foot bicycle patch to accommodate two-way bicycle traffic and restrict motor vehicle access to necessary maintenance vehicles only.

The report says that the alternative calls for abandonment of the road, which extends along the San Francisco watershed between Crystal Springs Road in San Mateo and Hillcrest Boulevard in Millbrae, and granting of a recreational trial casement over the right-of-way, plus an easement on watershed lands between Hillcrest and Skyline Boulevard to replace a trail eliminated by the construction of Junipero Serra Freeway.

Brook and Cantwell reported that their recommended alternative "is acceptable to all agencies involved."

If the proposal is accepted by the Board of Supervisors, they said, the State Department of Parks and Recreation will spend approximately $200,000 to pave the bicycle path and to provide restrooms and other necessary improvements.

Although Sawyer Camp Road is owned by the San Francisco Water Department, it is a public roadway and under the control of the county Board of Supervisors.

Water department officials have sought, without success, for years to have auto traffic banned, citing vehicular accidents on the narrow roadway, vandalism and littering.

Brook and Cantwell reported that it is doubtful that the State Department of Parks and Recreation would allow expenditure of any of the $500,000 coming to the county for trail acquisition and development as a result of Sen. Arlen Gregorio's SB 545 for Sawyer Camp Road improvements if motor vehicle usage is allowed.

Other alternatives developed by Brook and Cantwell, with their comments:

• No project, leave the road as it is, unpaved, with two-way traffic during daylight hours.

"This alternative has very little, if any, support from any of the agencies involved since it does nothing to solve the safety and vandalism problems."

• No paving or other capital improvements, but change the motorized traffic pattern from two-way to one-way.

"This should eliminate the most frequent and serious type of accident . . . the head-on collision. The opinion . . . is that speeds would generally increase . . . this would increase the safety hazards to other users of the road."

• Pave the road 21 feet in width to accommodate one-way motor vehicle traffic and two-way bicycle traffic:

"This alternative is undesirable because of cost (approximately $400,000), environmental impact (pavement, grading and removal of some vegetation), and the safety factor compounded by large numbers of bicycles."

• Pave a 12-to-14-foot wide bicycle path to accommodate two-way bicycle traffic and permit senior citizens and physically handicapped people to drive or be driven one-way on this trail on Mondays and Tuesdays.

"The agencies involved do not favor this alternative because of safety and liability . . . it is poor risk management to allow motor vehicles on a trail which has been designed for bicycles.

UAL Cancels Yule Flights

By GEORGE GOLDING

United Airlines Wednesday extended its cancellations of strikebound flights to Christmas Eve, adding credibility to unofficial word that the strike may be a long one.

Already, members of the Air Transport Employes Division of the Machinists Union were saying they have been told to brace for a hard winter.

"We will stay out until March if necessary," one worker said a union leader told him.

Some union members have also said they do not know what the strike is all about, although signs carried on the picket lines tell it clearly:

"Wages, cost of living, working conditions, outlaw the mutual aid pact," they read.

This last issue is peculiar to the airline industry. It is a plan by which striking airlines receive money from non-striking airlines, on the assumption that companies which remain in business will benefit from any strike.

National Airlines, as an example, has been on strike for months and receives monthly cash from other air companies which are members ot MAP, the unions contend.

"United collects money from other airlines during a strike," the picket signs proclaim at San Francisco International Airport. "This is unfair to the public and the workers."

That MAP is unfair is a theme of several unions in air transport, and among union leadership there is a concerted desire to break down the Mutual Aid Pact.

What is at stake is not a union's right to strike, they say, but the union's ability to strike effectively.

On the surface, the Machinists' strike against United appears effective. All 355 of the company's jets are idled. Thousands of ticket counters are vacant. Freight handling has stopped. Repair and maintenance work on aircraft, have halted.

But, say the unions, it is possible for an airline to make more profit on strike, with virtually no expenses and with Mutual Aid Pact income, than some airlines earn while operating.

Whether this is true of United will be tested in the weeks to come, say some union members.

Help Wanted

Although the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County is concentrating now on filling requests for Christmas help, the agency has received a couple requests for other volunteer help.

AMERICAN RED CROSS — Persons skilled in carpentry, electrical and plumbing work to perform minor home repairs as part of a "Fix-It Service" for senior citizens. A free service, the repairs are done to help correct safety hazards in seniors' homes.

EASTER SEALS — Aides to work on the directory and to type. A part-time secretarial position also is available for volunteers.

Additional information about these and other job opportunities may be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau which is located at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Today is a good day to think about what dessert we might serve for Christmas dinner. While pumpkin or mince pie are traditional desserts, and I favor tradition, why not serve something different this year? A light and fluffy Charlotte Russe, topped with whipped cream and decorated with red and green cherries will finish the meal in a grand style.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE

1 package (4½ oz.) custard mix
¼ cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 cups milk
5 Tablespoons rum
½ pint whipping cream
8 lady fingers, split

Combine the custard mix with the one-fourth cup sugar and one envelope gelatin, in saucepan. Blend in the three cups milk. Cook over high heat until mixture boils, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Remove from heat, stir in the five tablespoons rum and chill until mixture thickens.

Whip the half pint cream and reserve some for a garnish. Fold remaining cream into chilled custard mixture. Pour into a 1½ quart spring mold which has been lined with the 16 ladyfingers.

Chill until set, at least 4 hours, or overnight. Unmold on serving dish, garnish with whipped cream and decorate with maraschino cherries. I used both red and gree, cut into sections drained on a paper towel, and formed into flowers.

Serves 8.

If you would like to serve something chocolate for dessert, this is a rich and delicious treat.

ENGLISH TOFFEE DESSERT

2 squares semi-sweet chocolate
1 package (7 oz.) vanilla wafers, crushed
1 cup butter
2 cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
1 cup slivered and toasted almonds

Melt the two squares of chocolate in a double boiler. Cool chocolate. Butter a 9x9-inch square pan and line with part of the cookie crumbs. (Save a few for the garnish.) Cream the one cup butter and then cream in the two cups powdered sugar and one teaspoon vanilla.

Add the three eggs, one at a time, beating well after each egg. Pour over crumbs. Top with the cup toasted almonds. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Cut into small squares. Garnish with the reserved vanilla crumbs.

Serves 8 to 10.

Banquet Held

Terra Nova held its second annual football awards banquet on Dec. 9, in the Terra Nova cafetorium.

In previous years the awards ceremonies have included the other fall sports (cross country and light-seight basketball) participants.

The spaghetti dinner started at 6 p.m. and cake and ice cream were served while the awards were given.

Freshmen football coach Art Hermosillo introduced his team and the most valuable player, Ron Terramoto.

Terramoto was the frost team's leading ground gainer this year.

Sophomore coaches Marty Coil and Mike Gunning introduced their players and the team's most valuable player, Mike Kremesec. Kremesec was the top ball carrier and a defensive standout as well.

Matas was one of the county's premier players this year while earning all NPL on both offense and defense.

"TIGER TALES" Magazine earned an "A" rating in the second annual Ricks College Journalism Skills Judging Contest.

The contest had entrants from 13 western states.

The "A" rating meant "Tiger Tales" was among the top five per cent of the high school newspapers entered.

The highest score possible was a star rating, which only 1.5 per cent of the entries achieved.

"Tiger Tales" was complimented in special areas including feature stories, where they were credited for perfect content and objectivity with quality.

They also were credited for editorials and immediacy.

"Tiger Tales" editors considered the rating an honor, since "Tiger Tales" was a magazine entered in the contest judging by newspaper standards which automatically cost the magazine points in many cases.

THEY WERE COMMENDED

'Living Christmas Tree' at Westlake Baptist

Members of the Balboa High School Alumni Association's board of directors will meet tonight at the school to plan activities for the coming year.

Nanci Reynolds will be hostess for the evening and Frank Galo will preside, as plans for a rummage sale at the Flea Market are finalized.

Guests are welcome at the meeting, in room 318.

"A LIVING Christmas Tree" will be presented by the music department of the Westlake Community Baptist Church Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Jack Palmer, minister of music at the church reports that more than 45 musicians will be singing and playing musical instruments during the programs.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. in the church, located at Southgate and Elmwood Drive.

IT STILL isn't too late to have a part in one of Daly City's biggest Christmas parties.

The members of the Holy Angels' Latin Club are accepting donations for the party they will be sponsoring on Saturday.

Mrs. Martha Ruiz, 994-0599, and Mrs. Yolanda Escobar, 992-5036, will speak with anyone who wants to help make many of the city's youngsters have a Merry Christmas!

THE ANNUAL Veteran's Christmas party sponsored by the Fifty-Plus Club of Pacifica for the men living in the Menlo Park Veterans Home will be held on Saturday, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan.

Erma Thompson and her troupe of musicians will accompany the club members on their bus and add a gift of music and song to the party atmosphere. Members of the club have been making fudge and other goodies for the World War I veterans and good, clean used men's clothing is being solicited from the public for distribution to the men.

Anyone wishing to contribute should contact Mrs. Calhan, 334-4757, for more information.

THE SOUND of English hand bells will help herald the start of Christmas week at Lakeside Presbyterian Church!

The chancel choir will perform the Appalachian Nativity, the youth choirs will be singing selections from the traditional book of carols on Sunday afternoon and the bells will chime a welcome to the jovous week.

Following the 5 p.m. program, a spaghetti dinner will be served in the social hall. Proceeds from the dinner will be used to help finance a bell choir trip to San Luis Obispo in the spring to participate in a regional bell choir conference.

James Groves is the director of music at the church.

There is no charge for the concert, but advance reservations are necessary for the dinner. Tickets, costing $2 per adult and $1 for children six to 12, may be purchased from any bell choir member or reserved by telephoning the church office, 564-8833. Children under six do not require advance reservations but will be charged 50 cents at the door.

MRS. LOUISE ENBERG, director of the Friends Outside, reports that the group will hold its annual Christmas party tonight at the St. Paulus Lutheran Church, Gough and Eddy Streets, in San Francisco.

A potluck dinner will be served and entertainment, carol singing and a gift exchange will follow.

The group is collecting items for Christmas baskets to be distributed this week. Mrs. Enberg indicated that a special need exists for canned and dry food stuffs, stuffed toys and stocking stuffers, soap, toothbrushes, lotions and deodorants, candy, nuts, fruit, scarves and costume jewelry.

Lorraine Heath

To learn how you can help with this effort, call 863-5100.

WITH CHRISTMAS only days away, Mrs. Julian Fernando suggests that it is time to make plans for the welcoming in of the New Year.

"Freedom and Frolic" will be the theme for the party being sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Men and Women and tickets are already on sale!

The party will begin at 7 p.m. in the parish hall of Our Lady of Mercy Church and a sit-down steak dinner will be served at 9 p.m.

Tickets, costing $25 per couple, will be sold until December 29.

For additional information call Mrs. Fernando, 992-1914.

SUNDAY THE Ecumenical Vietnamese Assistance Committee (EVAC) hosted a tea for member of the community and the newly situated Vietnamese family which the group is sponsoring.

The family of eight, parents and relatives of Daly City, Mrs. Albert Garrison, have been moved into their new home and are beginning the process of adjusting to their new life style.

Mrs. Louise Courpet, a member of EVAC, notes that while the family is now settled in a home, there is still a need for several large items. The committee is seeking donations of household equipment, a kitchen table and chairs and a washer and dryer. Anyone wishing to donate is asked to call Sister Jeanenne at St. Andrew's Community Center, 756-3222.

Laguna Honda Hospital Seeks Items for Gifts

Sweaters, robes, books, games, puzzles and grooming aids are among the Christmas gift items sought this year by Laguna Hospital Volunteers for more than 1,200 chronically-ill patients, according to Jeanne Barsotti, director of the volunteers.

"Most of our patients have few relatives or friends, no personal funds and must depend on the generosity of the people of San Francisco to make Christmas meaningful," Mrs. Barsotti said. "We're hoping that these lonely people won't be forgotte by the community in the hustle and bustle of the holiday season."

Mrs. Barsotti said that checks made out to the Laguna Hospital Volunteers are also welcome.

Any amoung may be sent.

Every penny received will be spent on presents for the patients, she said.

Whether gifts are unusual or conventional, homemade or purchased, they should not be gift-wrapped.

Volunteers wrap and personalize every package to add a personalized touch to tell each patient "someone cares," Mrs. Barsotti said.

Agency on Aging Seeks Proposals

Do you have a project all ready to go that would provide an immediate service to disadvantaged, minority or handicapped seniors?

If you do, the San Mateo County Area on Agency office would like to hear from you.

The only requirement is that the project must meet a "significant gap" in present services to the aging.

Applications for proposals are available at the agency offices, 234 Marshall St., Room 10, Redwood City, and should be submitted by a deadline of Dec. 19, 5 p.m.

Also being sought are proposals that would provide services to seniors in transportation and nutri-transportation, and nutrition, according to Delia Vicerra, agency director.

Potential bidders are invited to join a technical assistance workshop Dec. 11 from 10 a.m.- noon in the basement conference room, Hall of Justice.

A special session for bidders requiring individual assistance will be held that afternoon from 1-3 p.m., Mrs. Vicerra said.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I hear the premium I pay for Medicare medical insurance is going to be increased in July. Why?

A. The basic monthly medical insurance premium rate will go from $6.30 to $6.70 starting July 1. The Medicare law requires an annual review of the medical insurance program to determine if individual premiums and Federal funding will cover estimated expenses for the next 12 months. The premium rate increase is related to a rise in the cost of medical services that are covered by Medicare and used by people who have the protection. The basic premium rate for Medicare hospital insurance will also go from $33 to $36 a month, starting July 1, for people who pay a premium for the protection because they're not eligible for social security benefits.

"Reading is to the mind, what exercise is to the body." — Addison.

"Of all the human relaxations which are free from guilt, none is so pleasant as reading." — Brydges.

———

"He that hath never fed on the dainties that are bred in a book; . . . his intellect is not replenished; he is only an animal, only sensible in his duller parts." — Shakespeare.

———

Why not give books for Christmas? There is a wide selection in every bookstore in the land. For lovers of America there is James Micheners "Centennial," a novel about the heart of America. It is a moving, impressive story about men and women from many lands and many loves who found thier livelihood in Colorado. For over a year "Centennial" has been on the best seller list. Now there is a paper back edition.

Paul Gallico has a delightful book that "can help you make Christmas the kind you thought you had lost forever." "Miracle In The Wilderness" is a Christmas story of colonial America where lived people who believed in equal rights and free agency for all men.

THEN THERE are Victor Margolin's "American Poster Renaissance," "The Age of Poster Design From 1890-1900" and Royal B. Hassrick's "Western Painting Today." In both books the reader finds a profile of America as it was both out in the rugged west and along the east coast during the lavish age of the turn of the century.

"Music For Patrots, Politicians and Presidents" by Vera Brodsky Lawrence, has been called a melange of tunes, tales and pictures. It is an expensive book, but most enjoyable.

"Dateline Whitehouse" by Helen Thomas, presents a warm and revealing account of the families who have occupied the Whitehouse from Kennedy to Ford.

Michael A. Godfrey's "A Closer Look" is the Sierra Club's newest volume. Diane Love's "Flowers Are Fabulous For Decorating" has been called as fresh as a new cut rose. "The Story of American Golf" is an old book that has been brought up to date. "My Shalom, My Peace" from McGraw-Hill contains paintings and poems by Jewish and Arab children.

For American children the old standbys are available in new covers. You will find the "Hardy Boys" books and the "Nancy Drew" stories thrill children just as they ever did. Laura Ingalls Wilder's stories have been made popular by a television program which is well done but does not capture a child's imagination as much as reading one of Mrs. Wilder's excellent books can do.

Hang Glider Spends Night in Forest

A man whose hang glider made an unscheduled landing in a grove of trees near Pacifica walked out uninjured after spending the night huddled by a fire he built to keep warm.

The sheriff's office identified the glider pilot as Rodney Bryant, 23, 344 Miramontes, Half Moon Bay.

According to deputies, Bryant took off Sunday afternoon from the top of North Peak northeast of Montara, as he has done on previous occasions.

Bryant intended to land in the St. Peters Church parking lot in nearby Pacifica, but wind caught the glider and it went down in a grove of trees.

Deputies said Bryant's girl friend, Patricia Ann Stevens, 28, saw him walk away from the glider, but that he did not emerge from the brushy and wooded terrain. Ms. Stevens notified Pacifica police Monday morning

Le Pacini

If you enjoy trivia, miscellany of statistics, read on.

You've heard of a balanced attack, but it's possible there never has been and never will be a truly balanced offense such as Cal had this year. They averaged 229.3 yards per game passing, and 229.2 rushing!

That averaged out to 6.0 yards per offensive play. Broken down, it was 8.2 passing (best in the Pac-8) and 4.8 rushing (second to UCLA's 6.0). The Bruins were second to Cal in yards gained per play, with a 5.7 average. Cal also had the league's best passing completion percentage, with an outstanding 55.2.

Cal and UCLA were amazingly comparable in terms of points scored and points allowed. Overall, the Bears scored 330 points, allowed 233. The Bruins scored 326, allowed an identical 233.

In conference play, Cal scored 235, UCLA 215. Cal allowed 133 points to be scored, the Bruins, 123. And, of course, their win-loss records were almost identical. The difference was that Cal was vastly improved at season's end after a slow start, UCLA was not.

In terms of yardage gained on their defenses, evidence is that the yards allowed by both teams about jived with the points they allowed to be scored on them, and reflected the nearly identical effectiveness in their respective defenses. UCLA ranked fourth in the Pac-8, Cal fifth, but Cal allowed 4.8 yards gained per play, while UCLA allowed 5.0.

It was, of course, Cal's offense that really got them where they got. They were the only team, on most All American squads, to have two men (Chuck Muncie and Steve Rivera) named to the offensive unit.

One of the injustices of such all star picking was in the total disregard, even for Pac-8 Honorable Mention, of the other Cal wide receiver, Wesley Walker. Walker was fifth in the Pac-8 in receiving with 36 catches, and was tops in total yardage from pass receptions (834), in touchdown passes (nine) and in yards gained per pass reception (23.3).

He was tied for fifth in the Pac-8 in scoring, the only end among the top 10 scorers. In addition, he gained well on occasional running plays, even scoring a touchdown by that conveyance.

In Muncie and quarterback Joe Roth, the Bears had the two top men in the Pac-8 in total offense in terms of yards gained per offensive play. Muncie led with 6.9, which is a tremendous fete for a running back, while Roth barely trailed, a 6.8. Roth led the Pac-8 in total offense in terms of total yards gained per game with a 184.4.

UCLA's QB, John Sciarra, led in total yards, with 1,907. Roth, you remember, barely played in very early season. Sciarra, however, accounted for 20 touchdowns, running for 14, which was one less than Muncie, the league leader in that category, and passing for six.

ONE STATISTIC not generally publicized was Roth's interceptions, or, more accurately, lack of them. He had only .029 percent of his passes intercepted, which is outstanding, a real pro standard.

Another unheralded Bear offensive player was fullback Tom Newton, who not only did an outstanding job of blocking for Muncie and often picked up important tough yardage when everybody was teaming on Muncie, but also had the third best mark in the Pac-8 for average yards gained per carry, at 5.6.

Mike Langford, the Stanford place kicker, had most of the pre-season publicity for West Coast toes, primarily because of his last second field goal in the Big Game last year. But Cal's less heralded place kicker Jim Breech had the statistical edge on Langford this season.

Breech, who with 73 points bettered the Cal standard for points scored kicking formerly held by Randy Wersching, now with the Chargers, outscored Langford by 12 points. He hit on 39-40 conversions (97.5 per cent) and 11 of 19 field goals (57.9), as against Langford's 33-36 (91.7) and 9-18.

Breech and Langford both look good for the pros, whose accuracy, incidentally, seems down somewhat. For example, every regular place kicker in the NFL has missed at least one conversion. Most, in fact, have missed at least two.

Only three kickers have missed as few as one. Remember when conversions in pro football were virtually automatic? It must have to do with the goal posts being taken off the goal line.

Almost forgot another Cal All Star team snub. The UPI thought enough of Cal linebacker Phil Heck to vote him to their All Coast team as one of the three premier linebackers in the area. But Pac-8 coaches, who picked for the All Conference team, which of course takes in fewer players than the All Coast, saw fit not to recognize Heck on a squad in which they named FOUR linebackers.

Would you be surprised to know that Oakland's Pete Banaszak, who is, afterall, a substitute running back, is among the top five in the NFL in scoring, having gone into the end zone 11 times? That's what you call taking advantage of opportunity.

IT MUST BE evident now that the Warriors are not cheese champs. Even though they have nobody but Rick Barry high in individual statistics (at that, he's down lower than last year in scoring, assists, steals and free throw percentage), they are doing a real job statistically as a team. Though not leading the league in scoring, as they did last year, they now lead in defense (which they didn't last year), which is the key to success in any sport. Another key, naturally, is how well you do against opponents.

In that category the Warriors are perfect, having a team lead against all opponents in every statistic.

The main reason why Warrior individual statistics are not overly impressive is that so much playing time is shared. But, in terms of 48 minute — or full game — spans, almost all of the Warriors have some impressive statistics.

For a few examples: Jamaal Wilkes is averaging 13.6 rebounds; Gus Williams 25 points, 7.4 assists and three steals; George Johnson 3.3 blocked shots.

Sudden thought: have you noticed that Portland continues to win more when Bill Walton out of the lineup than when he is in it?

LOCAL NOTES: George Hinkle is Terra Nova High School's vice principal, and as such, one of his jobs is to take sick calls from teachers in early morning so that he can arrange for substitutes. Except that for years he has been forbidding any calls before 7 a.m., because "it interferes with my running."

There were many who thought that Hinkle just didn't want to be rung out of the sack too early, but now everybody knows differently.

Hinkle recently won the South San Francisco Fun Race in the senior division when he negotiated the 5.3 mile course in just 41 minutes — an outstanding time for anyone, but spectacular for a fiftyish administrator who just a few years ago was hobbling around his desk with a slipped disq.

Kevin McBride, formerly one of Hinkle's charges, and one heckuva football player for the recently crowned NPL champion Tigers when they were more usually league doormats, has been named the first team center on the Central Coast All-Conference squad for his play with Menlo-Atherton J.C.

Hillsdale Defeated By Rams

Hillsdale High grads Mike Arburn, Mike Stockwell and John Recker played major roles in two local community college wins Friday night.

Clutch play by Arburn and Stockwell led Menlo College to a 56-42 overtime win over nonconference host De Anza.

Recker topped Canada scorers with 11 points as the Colts won their first game of the season, 59-51 over the visiting San Francisco State JVs.

Arburn brought Menlo back to a 50-50 tie on a layin with 1:48 left in overtime. The Oaks got the ball back, and at 0:47 Stockwell hit a 10-foot jump shot. At 0:27 Stockwell was fouled in a rebound scramble at the other end, and hit two free throws.

With 0:08 left Arburn hit both ends of a one-and-one to put Menlo up by six and ice the win. Arburn would up trying teammate Rick Michelmore for game scoring honors with 18 points. Stockwell had 12. Menlo is now 10-1.

Canada trailed the Gator JVs by a point at the half, but controlled the tempo after intermission and slowly pulled ahead. The Colts are now 1-6.

Rams Live up to Billing

Serra Invitational Champs

DAN BERTELLOTTI
and JOHN MURPHY
Correspondents

Westmoor High's basketball players were dominant. Everyone knew their names.

With guard Danny Williams scorching the soles of his tennies on every drive and Jerry McNeil blocking shots right and left, the Rams were clear favorites to win the Invitational title Saturday night.

But the Rams got a real scare from a no-name Mills squad before rallying in the final period for a 78-70 win.

Earlier, Aragon nipped Hillsdale for third place, 56-54, on a last-second shot. Serramonte won the consolation title by downing Menlo School 63-48, and Serra defeated Carlmont 52-41 for seventh place.

Mills came into the finale with a 2-3 record, waves of substitutes and a running offense. Westmoor entered with a 3-0 mark, a group of stars and a penchant for running even faster.

But it was Mills, quick and intense, pressing all over the court and double-teaming the ball whenever possible, that controlled the first three periods of the game. The Vikings led by as many as 13 points, and owned a 43-32 halftime lead.

Mills slowed down a little in the late going, and was hurt by a cold third quarter. Westmoor scored the last six points of that quarter to cut Mills' lead to 51-50.

Jerry McNeil

Williams and McNeil picked up points in bunches and McNeil, only 6-2, controlled the boards on both ends as Westmoor went ahead.

Two free throws by Mills' Joe Guaspari cut the Rams' lead to 62-61 with 3:51 left, but Westmoor got hot after that. Sophomore Mark Navarro hit two straight baskets and McNeil added one to put the Rams comfortably ahead, 68-61.

"We lost a little of our intensity in the second half," said losing coach Bill Smith. "We didn't get the ball up quick enough. We depend a lot on an up tempo."

McNeil and Williams lived up to expectations. McNeil pumped in 25 points and blocked 10 shots. Williams topped all scorers with 26 points. Tom Collins, a reserve center-forward, paced Mills with 18 points and made the all-tourney team. Guaspari, like McNeil and Williams an all-tourney pick, added 14.

Aragon-Hillsdale

Hillsdale only caught up with the Dons to lead three times, but went ahead 53-52 with time running out.

Aragon guard Bob Archer sank a 15-footer to put the Dons up 54-53 with 0:30 left. But Hillsdale forward Tom Lucas was fouled while shooting with 0:09 left. He missed the first free throw but sank the second to tie the score.

Aragon called time out, obviously to make sure the ball went to 6-6 center Sid Williams, the Dons' ace.

Hillsdale coach Bill Wilkin exhorted his players not to let the ball go inside. "If they're going to beat you let 'em beat you from outside," he said.

Each team got what it wanted — sort of. Williams got the ball, but he had to shoot from outside. Unfortunately for Hillsdale, his 18-footer touched nothing but cord going through.

Williams scored 33 points, making his three-game tourney total 89. He was named tourney MVP. Guard Dave Smith led Hillsdale with 18. Lucas had 15 and center Terry Batchelder 11.

Aragon, which played without starting forward Al Bergland (he was in a school play) ran its record to 4-2. Hillsdale is 2-5.

of 18 points in the final period to give the Padres seventh place in the tourney.

Serra operated patiently in the first half against the Carlmont zone, looking inside to either Duffy or junior forward Tim Scott. Scott scored nine of his 11 points in the first half.

Carlmont fired up medium-range jumpers against the Padres' sticky man-to-man defense. Guard Rich Sentman and forward Chris Connell did most of the damage, hitting for six points apiece, but Serra took a 25-19 halftime advantage.

The Padres took full command in the fourth quarter, forcing turnovers and dominating the boards as Duffy asserted himself under the basket at both ends.

Sentman led Carlmont with 11 points. Serra is 2-4 in non-league play and Carlmont is 3-4.

Serramonte-Menlo

Clutch shooting by forward Matt Scheffler spoiled a fine comeback effort by Menlo School in the consolation championship game.

Facing a 15-point deficit to open the final period, the Acorns rallied behind the hot shooting of guard Davis Slajchert and forward Jay Cornish. After a Slajchert jumper with two minutes remaining, Menlo trailed 59-55.

Menlo forced a jump and controlled the ball, but twice missed crucial shots. Scheffler came down and sank a 15-footer to put the Regents up by six with 1:19 left.

Slajchert then hit the front end of a one-and-one. A steal and layin by Cornish chopped the Regent lead to three with less than a minute to go.

Serramonte worked the clock down to 0:28, when Scheffler found an open lane for a layin which proved to be the clincher.

with 23 points. Cornish had 19 and forward Jeff Dahlberg added 10 for the Acorns. Junior forward Marty Feil paced the Regents with 22 points; Scheffler got 15 and guard Damon Hudson 12. Serramonte is now 4-3 in non-league competition; Menlo is 2-5.

Model Plan for Career Programs

The Economic Opportunities Commission Thursday night instructed executive director Edward R. Becks to develop a San Mateo County model new careers program for ex-criminal offenders and young adults for possible future adoption.

The unanimous vote came after commissioners were told of a voluntary project along those lines in East Palo Alto.

"If the commission wants to get involved in this program, it should be countywide," Becks said.

The program, if adopted, would be designed for ex-offenders and misp.aced persons from 16 to 26. It could provide counselling, testing and placement services and jobs and housing locations.

According to East Palo Alto volunteer Bernard Garrett, services of that nature are designed to help people get into and stay within the "proper educational and nurturing environment, helping them learn to make realistic career choices."

Becks said that his study for the commission would include potential funding sources from the state.

According to Garrett, the program is important because of what he termed a change in the policy of the California Correctional institutions, which could result in the release of 10,000 persons from prisons in 1976.

Without programs, he sad, "rehabilitation for them may occur in the streets."

The program could be designed to also reach out to youg adults and teenagers in high schools and junior colleges.

The EOC is the policy-making agency for the federal office of Economic Opportunity (War on Poverty) programs in San Mateo County, and serves as an advisory board to the Board of Supervisors on matters relating to poverty and human resources.

In other business during their 4½-hour meeting commissioners:

• Authorized an application for a $10,000 federal grant to implement for six months, beginning next April, seminars, workshops and sessions on how to best utilize public transportation and how to select the best routes.

The aim of the grant is to involve persons from low-income communities in meetings and planning with Transit District, municipal and county officials, and to raise individual and community perception and understanding with respect to the concepts of environment and transportation and the correlation between them.

• Voted to develop criteria to recruit more low-income senior citizens for nutrition programs throughout the county. After a lengthy debate, the commission rejected statistics formulated by a committee which stated that only 31 per cent of the seniors utilizing the nutrition program in Daly City were low income people, compared with 90 to 95 per cent at other sites.

In any event, commissioners agreed that recruitment through churches, schools and other media were necessary to advertise the fact that the programs exist.

Christmas Dinner At the Aquarium

The Aquarium, in the Sheraton Inn, Burlingame, will be serving dinner from noon to 9 p.m. on Christmas Day. Steak, roast turkey, baked ham and salmon will be the holiday entrees. A complete New Year's Eve package will be offered for only $45. Now is the time to call for reservations . . . You still may win a huge four-foot Christmas stocking, filled with merchandise, in the special holiday promotion now taking place at Tanforan-Park's Garden Restaurants. The last drawing is Saturday, Dec. 20, and entry blanks are available at stands located throughout this San Bruno restaurant complex . . . On Saturday and Sunday only (Dec. 20 and 21) there's a big special going on at the Plaza Donut Shop, located in Burlingame Plaza. One dozen donuts, plus one pint of orange juice is only $1.39. Or one dozen donuts is $1.25. The choice is yours! . . . Two dance floors, two orchestras and the Roberta Linn Show tell the New Year's Eve story about The Fisherman in Burlingame. A special festive New Year's Eve menu of complete dinners from $7.95 will be featured. Crab Cioppino, Deviled Crab en Casserole, Prime Rib, Fresh Tagliarini and steaks will be among the entrees, which will be accompanied by soup or salad and coffee. Headliner Roberta Linn will be seen whether you are upstairs or downstairs.

NEW POSITION

Jennie Field has been named director of sales of the Villa Hotel in San Mateo, announced owner-manager Joseph Greenbach. In her new position, Mrs. Field will coordinate and direct the marketing and sales effort in corporate, commercial and convention activities.

Romano's Pizza And Italian Dishes

Enrico Romano, the original pizza prince who is satisfied to tend to his own store instead of branching out in all directions, and his mother, Enricketta, parlayed a small pizza parlour into a thriving Italian restaurant featuring all of Italy's trimmings. Yep, this Rockaway Beach spot still serves pizza to eat in or to take out . . . Betcha Scotty Campbell's will be one of Ol' St. Nick's first Christmas stops. This Redwood City dinner house just beams with holiday spirit. Smiling employees and happy executives greet and seat the nightly throngs. With Mary Lou Fox calling the restaurant signals, a touchdown here for dinner is a sure winner . . . The florist shop in Lehr's Greenhouse Garden restaurant in San Francisco is the only one in the Bay Area open seven days a week — and 'til 10 p.m. every night. Mighty handy to know in case you want to buy — or send — flowers in a hurry . . . Bay Meadows continues to attract crowds to the thoroughbred race meet, which concludes Tuesday . . . Tino's Gold Platter, now owned and operated by the three Constantino brothers, is back in the limelight. The excellent banquet and private party facilities here have made this San Carlos restaurant one of the most sought out on the Peninsula. Three different rooms are available for holiday entertaining, with accommodations up to 250 persons . . . Gift certificates from Phil Leh's Steakeries in downtown San Francisco are welcome gifts for just about everybody on your Christmas shopping list. The certificates are available in any amount and are valid at both Steakeries, across the street from each other at the corner of Taylor and Ellis . . . Eve and Joe Finocchio will be on vacation December 14 through 25, but will reopen their world famed Finocchio's club on December 26. . .

Barney's and South Shore Nugget Bonus

Barney's coupon package has proved a big winner for visitors to South Lake Tahoe. The bonus includes cash, two-for-one drinks and a Keno ticket. The coupon you receive at Barney's also includes another bonus for the South Tahoe Nugget. Here, you'll find one of the best luncheon and dinner buys in the area for an "All you can eat" tag of just $1.95. So you see, you're a winner in more ways than one when visiting these Nevada clubs. Barney's coupons are available in San Mateo at Nevada Tours, 1417 South El Camino Real. No charge. . . . A hot item under the Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant banner is the nextdoor Fish Depot, where fresh crab and many other seafood take-outs are available for the home table. You name it — if it swims or floats, Vince's is the place to shop . . . L'Escargot, located on California Drive in Burlingame, presents an enticing Weekend Special created by Chef Christian. Each Friday and Saturday the special features a different entree at a reasonable price . . . On Friday and Saturday nights you can dance to your heart's delight on a portable dance floor in the lounge at Bertolucci's restaurant. Joe Simontacchi plays the piano-organ bar tunes from 8 p.m. Incidentally, be sure to ask about Bertolucci's New Year's Eve party . . . The incredible "Wheatstraw" (Jenny and Robert Bundsen, Matt DeFreitas and Roger Mills) will be entertaining every Friday and Saturday nights at Butterfield's in Menlo Park through New Year's Eve. The group will then head for the Sun Valley Lodge to do a three-week stint . . . Bottles of wine, beer or Sangria are included with all dinners, every day for lunch or dinner, at Sirloin and Brew Unlimited.

Give Your Presence at Our Table.

It's Christmas time again. A time when the greatest present you can give, is your own presence with family and friends.

This year, we'd like to share that presence. We'll be serving up all the warmth and festive spirit of a real old-fashioned family Christmas, and we'd like to serve them to you.

We'll be preparing a traditional Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. And we'll be on hand to make sure it will be a dinner you'll long remember.

This Christmas, be present at our table. Join our family with yours as we celebrate the joys and blessings of the holiday season.

Our Royal Holiday Buffet will feature such entrees as Roast Beef and Baked Sugar Cured Ham (both carved to order), Deviled Crab Legs St. Clair and Breast of Capon Almonden Duke. Also included is a wide array of appetizers, potatoes, vegetables, salads and desserts.

Royal Coach Offers Holiday Festivities

Tony Santa, executive chef of Dunfey's Royal Coach Motor Hotel, has prepared a special holiday menu for Christmas guests in the Coach and Horses dining room, where a festive buffet will be offered from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Featured entrees will be Roast Prime Rib of Beef, Baked Sugar-Cured Ham, Deviled Crab Legs and Breast of Capon, plus appetizers, salads and desserts . . . The Bayhill Lounge in San Bruno continues to do a "land office" business, with the music of Clean Sheets taking a lot of the credit. Manager Mike Walsh has signed the group to an indefinite run . . . The Castaway's manager, Peter Bovenberg, says there are still a few open dates in the reservations book of this bustling Coyote Point restaurant for holiday parties. But suggest you call now . . . Besides a variety of cuisine featured in three different restaurants, Nick's, The Moonraker, and Captain Charles, the Nick Gust empire in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica also provides coastside residents and visitors with live entertainment. Currently appearing at Nick's Wednesdays through Sundays is organist Jimmy Payer, who is joined by other musicians on weekends to play for dancing . . . Steak fanciers will find a great favorite on the new dinner menu at Samovar Coffee House, in Millbrae. A Top Sirloin Steak Dinner ($3.95) includes soup, salad, French bread and a choice of potato or rice pilaff.

COURTEOUS SERVICE

Al Petri, co-owner of Alfred's restaurant in San Francisco, along with his father, Art, is well experienced in the art of pleasing customers.

House of Lim Now Open, Redwood City

Ray, Susie and family wish to extend a big thank you to all their friends and customers, new and old, who have patronized their new House of Lim restaurant, located in the Marsh Manor Shopping Center, Redwood City, since its grand opening in October. As we well know, our reputations go before us — and this is indeed true with Ray Lim, who has established a fine reputation on the Peninsula for serving outstanding Cantonese and American food at affordable prices. To reach the House of Lim, via Bayshore Freeway, take the Marsh Road Off-ramp and you're right at the front door. Open seven days a week serving both lunch and dinner. . . . Of special note: Jimmy Ware, musician, piano tuner, technician (Jimmy and his Trio have played for countless dance parties on the Peninsula) is now in the Palo Alto Veterans Hospital receiving necessary treatments. If you'd like to send him a card of cheer, the address is 3801 Miranda Avenue, Ward 1-B 521, Palo Alto 94304. Holiday greetings from the "Bright Lights" gang, Jimmy.

Centralized Transit Sought

The staff of the San Mateo County Transit District is looking for a new location in the middle of the county and away from the massive government complex in Redwood City.

John T. Mauro, general manager of the district, said he hopes to move "about 12 miles from Daly City and 11 miles from East Palo Alto" within the next two to three months.

This would put the district offices in the Burlingame-San Mateo-Foster City area.

With the transit district offices located in the county's "hub," it would serve better the 183,000 northern and 166,000 southern households, it was explained.

The move also would cut costs and time.

Employes would drive to a central location to report to work and buses would be dispatched and returned to a central location, saving dollars on fuel and time in getting to and from their assigned routes, Mauro said.

Establishment of a maintenance facility-office complex is still about three years off, Mauro estimated. However, he is looking for an interim office location to rent.

Mauro said if the transit district could find office space — albeit temporary — in the mid-Peninsula, it would serve the citizens better by allowing them to attend meetings without traveling to Redwood City where meetings are now held.

It also would provide autonomy to the transit district by removing the physical location away from the rest of the county's government offices, Mauro said.

The transit district board has unanimously agreed with Mauro's recommendation and has instructed him to come up with alternatives on site locations.

Meanwhile, Mauro again has pointed out the losing battle the present bus routes are fighting in the fare box field.

He cited the original estimated expenses for operation of the cities' 39 routes (69 buses) as the reason for these losses.

In the 1975-76 funding year, overall revenues received were projected at $671,443 (based on carrying capacity and fare structures).

At the same time, operating costs are $3.7 million — an annual loss of some $3 million, Mauro said.

In other words, the public, through government funding or other means, must provide subsidies to these bus lines.

"This has to be turned around," Mauro said.

However, senior citizens and handicapped persons will continue in the future to qualify for a discounted fare — perhaps 10 cents — on transit district buses, it was learned.

SSF Fence Move Defended by Manager

City crews were used to relocate a fence on private property in South San Francisco, and a resident wants to know why.

Matthew McCubbin, 272 Taylor Drive, sent a letter to City Manager Edward Alario Dec. 6 asking for details on the fence relocation, which occurred Nov. 25 and 26.

McCubbin wanted to know the cost of the relocation work and who is paying the bill.

Alario, however, said the relocation was entirely justified for safety reasons.

The fence in its original location, he said, made access to the houses difficult for police and fire vehicles should an emergency occur.

"In my opinion it was extremely justified," Alario said. "I am a bug on public safety."

The situation on Taylor Drive is an unusual one.

It's a narrow street which fronts only two houses and juts out from Constitution Drive.

Alario explained that half of Taylor Drive, the side on which the houses are situated, is owned by the city. The other half is private property.

The fence, a tall wooden one, was erected by the St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church on Country Club Drive, parallel to Taylor.

The back of the church, however, faces the homes on Taylor Drive and the fence was erected so that pre-school children who attend a day care center on the church property would not run from the church property into the residential area.

Alario said Barrante called the city manager's office earlier this year as a private citizen asking that the situation be examined for safety reasons.

The fire chief and staff determined that a safety problem did exist and that emergency vehicle access to the homes might be difficult.

Outlook Withers for Price-Posting Accord

San Bruno City Councilman Gary Mondfrans has dropped his attempts to get a "compromise" ordinance enacted to head off a lawsuit threatened against the City of San Bruno service station dealers.

Mondfrans said last week he was not receiving support from fellow councilmen on his suggestion that an ordinance be adopted requiring all retail businesses to post prices, instead of just service stations.

Mondfrans met three weeks ago with Al Cardona, president of the Peninsula Chapter of the Northern California Service Stations Association, to try to work out a compromise with service station dealers.

Last month, the San Bruno dealers said they would sue the city, claiming its mandatory gas price posting ordinance is "discriminatory" because it orders only service stations to post prices.

At his meeting with Cardona, Mondfrans said he would support expansion of the price posting ordinance to require all retail and commercial businesses to post prices of their major products on signs outside their buildings.

He suggested that the ordinance require all businesses to post the prices of three of their top selling items, or require the businesses to post prices of all items that represent the top 5 per cent of gross sales.

Cardona at that time expressed satisfaction with the compromise ordinance, but warned that if it was not enacted the dealers would file a lawsuit.

Though Mondfrans said this week he would stop his attempts to get the compromise ordinance adopted because of lack of support from other councilmen, Cardona is balking at filing suit.

The service station dealers' attorney, Dick Hensen, said Thursday he would set up meetings with city councilmen in yet another attempt to work out a compromise.

"We remain in the negotiating phase," Cardona said.
